NORTHEASTERN OKLAHOMA A & M
SALUTES
DR. BRUCE G. CARTER
A PRESIDENT FOR 27 YEARS...
The obscure future of Northeastern Oklahoma A & M College, in 1943, was appraised cautiously by even the most optimistic men of the day. Located on a rural creek side, amidst gently rolling hills, the school adjoined a mining area, whose industrial outlook was only marginal for the postwar period ahead. A student shortage, created by World War II—fewer than 200 were enrolled—made difficult the justification of the limited study programs remaining. Higher education, dependent upon state aid, was financially insecure; the junior college curriculum was criticized, the argument being that several programs of study were irrelevant to higher education. A curtailment of activities at Northeastern Oklahoma Junior College had already become an issue of some political importance.

Called to assume the position of leadership during that time of crises for higher education in Northeastern Oklahoma was Bruce G. Carter, a young and confident administrator of the National Youth Administration for Oklahoma. In January, 1970, after a period of nearly twenty-seven years, during which the college has undergone a complete metamorphosis, Dr. Bruce G. Carter will resign his responsibilities as President of the College.

Inheriting a campus of five worn, dust-red brick buildings, a ten-member faculty, and an annual budget of $30,500, the new president soon demonstrated the ability and dignity of office he was so admirably equipped to command.

Dr. Carter initiated a promotional campaign among area business and community leaders, encouraging them to sponsor scholarships for deserving young men and women; from his efforts has emerged one of the most outstanding endowment programs among junior colleges.
The quality of education, as well as the curricula, was dramatically improved—at testing to a constant betterment is the current high percentage of faculty who hold Master and Doctoral degrees. An infant agricultural program, initiated as part of the college's curricula soon after Dr. Carter's inaugural, has achieved splendid recognition for its record of judging championships as well as for its vocational and instructional graduates. A new vocational-technical program was launched; programs in the fine arts (drama, music, art, and stagecraft) were innovated.

A master of the public relations field and an advocate of physical, as well as intellectual and technical skills, the president promptly instituted highly successful physical education programs in inter-collegiate athletics and girls' drill teams. "Golden Norsemen" have become synonymous with "excellence," and the "Norse Stars," an organization that Dr. Carter considers "his team," has displayed poise and southern charm everywhere they have performed. Football, basketball, baseball, track, tennis, golf, and cross-country have attained national prominence. Such sports as swimming, archery, and gymnastics now add versatility to an impressive list of variety and intramural pursuits.

In the early years of leadership, Dr. Carter served as administrator, public information director, teacher, and counselor. The new president, with his young family, even assumed the responsibility of head resident of one of the student dormitories. Today, the President strides to his office from a lovely traditional, Georgian brick home on the west edge of the campus, such proximity allowing constant communication with the students.
In the more than a quarter century of Dr. Carter's leadership, the annual operating budget has risen to well over 1.6 million dollars; the faculty has grown to over ninety members.

Since 1961, when a long range campus developmental blueprint was accepted, construction of new facilities has progressed at a phenomenal rate. Such improvement has enabled the college to nearly double its enrollment to 2,500 students. The City of Miami has responded to growth plans, with acceptance of Urban Renewal planning, which has permitted much of the construction progress over the last four years. Older facilities have been renovated; the campus itself has been attractively beautified. A central mall with walkways, chimes, fountains, and statuary, is the paramount feature of the "new" campus.

Dr. Carter's background and life is similar to that of Horatio Alger. Born in 1904, one of twelve children in a farm family, he was destined to a life of hard work; however, individual initiative was not lacking in the young lad from Chickasha, Oklahoma. Although he withdrew from formal education upon completion of the eighth grade to help support his family by working in a dry cleaning establishment, at age nineteen, with determination, he decided to complete high school. Entering the high school academy at Oklahoma Baptist University in Shawnee, he worked persistently to graduate in only two years. Three years later, in 1928, he was granted a Bachelor's Degree. He had finished an eight year course of study in only five. Despite the heavy academic load, the determined scholar worked in his spare time, hauling students' laundry on his back to cleaning establishments in town. During his stay at OBU, with effective management, his student laundry concession provided the necessary funds not only to complete college, but to buy a new automobile. He earned a Doctorate in Education at the University of Oklahoma in 1948.
Dr. Carter, today, admits that he was tempted to turn his business acumen into a highly profitable endeavor. He continues to regard his work experience as a precious investment; never has he disdained the state of the working man. Today, in a time of rising student expenses, he will spend much time and effort to see that a determined student has the opportunity to work his way through college. He admits that he has been skeptical of some students' ambition for success in the occupational and professional world; on the other hand, the resourcefulness of some young men and women little surprises the veteran administrator.

The retiring president has retained his warmth and regard for young people. Giving of his personal financial resources and counseling time, Dr. Carter has invested much in higher education. He has invigorated and revitalized the Student Senate into a vibrant and responsible organization. Student representatives, meeting frequently with Dr. Carter, share with him his candor and respect for the individual. Under his guidance, students often propose beneficial ideas related to improvement of environment, activities, conduct, curricula, and social and cultural pursuits. Dr. Carter has maintained that his office door is "always open" to anyone with an idea or problem.

The NEO administrator has served as President of the Miami Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce and has been a member of the Parks and Recreation Board for over twenty years. He was Chairman of the Ottawa County Semi-Centennial in 1957 and helped formulate the Ottawa County Historical Society in 1960. He has occupied leadership positions in the state and local Democratic organization. Professionally, he has served as President of the Council of North Central Junior Colleges, an organization with over 250 member schools, located in nineteen states.
Dr. Carter regards his long career of public service as part of his stewardship responsibilities as a Christian and churchman. The young Bruce Carter was State President of the Baptist Young People’s Union and often led in the organization of summer Bible schools in his early teaching career. A life-long Southern Baptist and former chairman of the Board of Deacons in the First Baptist Church of Miami, he is presently on the Executive Board of the nation-wide Southern Baptist Convention. He formerly presided as President of the Oklahoma Baptist University Alumni Association, being presently active in Alumni Development activities.

A pioneer in junior college education in Oklahoma, Dr. Carter affirms that he is not retiring, but only accepting another position in the field of education. He will become Executive Director of the Alumni Development Program for Higher Education in Oklahoma, and if predictions of his associates are accurate, Dr. Carter may yet become a pioneer of a quarter-century of work in this new area as well.

ADMINISTRATION–FACULTY
I want to express my very real pleasure and honor for the opportunity to serve as President of Northeastern Oklahoma A&M College. This is a beautiful campus with fine facilities for faculty and students. I shall do my very best to continue improvement of the educational opportunities available to students of this school and to the citizens of Oklahoma.

I extend a warm welcome to prospective students. Our enrollment is small enough that we can give personal attention which is so important, yet we are large enough to have a wide variety of curricular offerings. Our two-year Liberal Arts and Vocational-Technical programs rank among the best. Students have many and varied opportunities to participate in competitive and intramural sports as well as social and fine arts activities.

This yearbook tells the story of Northeastern A&M----and it is a proud story. If you are genuinely interested in securing an education, you can get a good start at Northeastern Oklahoma A&M College.

Sincerely,

D. D. Creech
President

Digital copies of The Viking, Northeastern Oklahoma A&M College's annual yearbook, are available in .pdf format on the NEO website for non-commercial purposes only. Scans were created using the best available editions; where stains, color-fading, and contributed marks (usually signatures) were visible on the original they also appear in the digital copy. The edge of some pages in oversized editions may be partially lost due to width limitations on the scanning bed. NEO yearbook editions that do not appear on the website are not part of the collection at present. If you would like to donate a yearbook, please contact the NEO Library.
