Class Attends Home Cooking Demonstration

To see southern hospitality and the best of its cuisine, a class of 15 students and a faculty member from Delta State College in Cleveland, Mississippi, have just returned from a trip to New Orleans and the Mississippi Gulf Coast. The class, including Mrs. Margaret C. Hilbish, spent a week in New Orleans, where they participated in a variety of activities. They visited famous restaurants and enjoyed the local cuisine, which included Creole and Cajun dishes. They also visited the French Quarter, where they experienced the lively atmosphere of the area. The trip was arranged by the Department of Hospitality and Tourism at Delta State College. Mrs. Hilbish, who is a well-known authority on southern cuisine, led the class and provided insights into the history and culture of the region. The class received positive feedback on their trip, and they plan to repeat it in the future. The class is planning to hold a demonstration of the recipes they learned in New Orleans, and Mrs. Hilbish is excited to share her knowledge with the students.

Pupils Go to Tulsa

A group of students from Delta State College in Cleveland, Mississippi, recently traveled to Tulsa, Oklahoma, to participate in a conference on regional development. The students, including Miss Mary J. Williams, who is a native of Tulsa, were selected to represent Delta State College at the conference. They presented a paper on the role of higher education in regional development, which received positive feedback from the other participants. Miss Williams, who is a member of the Delta State College Student Government Association, said that the trip was a valuable learning experience. She said, "The conference was an excellent opportunity to meet students and faculty from other institutions and to discuss the role of higher education in regional development." The students plan to use the information they gained from the conference to improve their research and to better serve the community.

Sigmas Stage Cabin Party On Grand Lake

Several members of Sigma Nu, the fraternity at Delta State College in Cleveland, Mississippi, recently hosted a cabin party on Grand Lake. The party was attended by a large group of students and faculty members, who enjoyed the festivities and the beautiful scenery. The fraternity members, including Mr. John S. Brown, who is the president of the fraternity, said that the party was a great success. He said, "The party was a great opportunity for our members to bond and to enjoy the beauty of the Grand Lake area." The members plan to hold similar events in the future.

Joe Russell Plays For Alumni Dance

Mr. Joe Russell, a member of the Delta State College Alumni Association, recently played at a dance for alumni. The dance was attended by a large group of alumni and their families, who enjoyed the music and the socializing. Mr. Russell, who is a member of the Delta State College Graduates' Association, said that the dance was a great opportunity to connect with other alumni. He said, "The dance was a great way to meet other alumni and to reminisce about our college days. I hope we can do more events like this in the future." The alumni association plans to hold similar events in the future.

Gammas Sell Mumps For Alumni Game

The Gamma Sigma Fraternity at Delta State College in Cleveland, Mississippi, recently sold mumps for an alumni game. The mumps were sold to alumni and their families, who bought them to support the alumni association. Mr. Joe B. Jones, who is the president of the alumni association, said that the mumps were a great success. He said, "The mumps were a great way to support our alumni association and to bring alumni together. We hope to do more events like this in the future." The alumni association plans to hold similar events in the future.
