Creative Writing Class Experimental Program

Plans have been made to publish a collection of student writings and drawings for release in May of this year. According to Raymond Boyd, English instructor, volunteer students formed a committee to discuss and organize an experimental Creative Writing Class. Their purpose is to evaluate, select and publish short stories, poetry and non-fiction.

Awards

Students interested in submitting material should do so before deadline, March 30, 1973. All submissions should be typed, neatly written or drawn and given to Boyd, Room 208, Slabeggy Hall, to a committee member or to any English instructor.

The class was organized in cooperation with the Department of English and will be directed by Dr. Charles Angier, Dean of Instruction, Shirl White, Communications Chairman, and Dr. Richer, English instructor. Future plans are for an accreditation course in Creative Writing to begin Sept., 1973 to ultimately publish a collection of student works in a book to be published in the fall semester.

Annual Science Fair

Scheduled In March

Planning for the 12th Annual Science and Engineering Fair March 5th at Northeastern A&M's College faculty are expecting over 200 entries from junior and senior high schools of Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma.

J. E. L.娄renz, PhD, mathematics instructor in charge of the Fair, said that future engineers and scientists are being notified through their school teachers of the wide range of prizes to be offered this year.

Either individual or group projects may be entered in the areas of biology, chemistry, geology, chemistry, physics, mathematics, and astronomy. Judging is on the basis of creative ability, scientific thought, thoroughness, skill, clarity and grammatical value. Serving as judges will be faculty members from area colleges and universities.

The first place award winner in the Fair will receive an expenses-paid trip to International Science and Engineering Fair to be held in San Diego, Calif., May 1-11. Also the top exhibitors, a senior will receive a junior/senior tuition scholarship to Northeastern A&M.

Cash awards, amounts to be announced later, will be given for entries in biology, mathematics, chemistry and physics by the State Science Fair. In all, 23 winners at NEO will be designated to enter Oklahoma State Science and Engineering Fair at East Central State College, Ada, on April 5-7.

Also presented the top exhibitor will be the traditional "Navy Science Cruiser" Award. During the summer of 1972 the winner will spend about five days at sea aboard research vessels and on a ship at sea observing science in the U.S. Navy.

Special awards in the NEO Fair are the Cameron "Wish Award" of $35 to the highest ranking entry pertaining to Biological Sciences; the TriDelta Science American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical and Petroleum Engineers, Inc. $35 award pertaining to Earth Sciences section; and Eastman Kodak Company $35 for the most original design of a photo project.

Registration and set-up exhibits will be Friday, March 3, from 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. with judging following. Displays will be open to public viewing Friday evening from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday, March 4 from 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

College Entrance Examination Board

Awards Scholarships To NEO Coeds

Two NEO coeds have been awarded Upper Division Scholarships from the College Entrance Examination Board for continuing their educations at a university next year.

Sallie Gray, Alba, and Cheryl Kaye Slocums, Tulsa, were announced as recipients of the grants made to minority group students who plan to transfer to four-year institutions after receiving an Associate in Arts degree.

Nichols Faces Challenging Task In Rogers And Hammerstein Musical

Breath-taking events costing are in store for theatre-goers when "Carousel" is presented by NEO beginning Wednesday, Feb. 21 in the Fine Arts Center.

Choreographer Don Nichols, drama instructor, faces a challenging task in the Rogers and Hammerstein musical. He and student assistants Becky Nesbitt, Miami, and Ardelle Wermuth, Tulsa, are spending endless hours preparing various scenic and interpretive dance routines to fit each familiar selection as "June Is Bustin' Out All Over."

The most action-packed dance presentation is the arrival of the gallant circus world headed by ringmaster David Green, Fisher sophomore. Two daring good "philanderers" will elicit roars and execute a series of spins and turns while lightfooting pasties parade around in a circle.

Crowder Steals Win On Last Ditch Shot

When NEO and Crowder College get together for a basketball game, it isn’t the everyday run-of-the-mill basketball game. The meeting of Jan. 25 was true to this style, as the Roughriders squared off against the Norsemen on a last second field goal from underneath.

The Norsemen got off to an ice-cold start in the first half and Crowder pulled off to a 12-2 lead at the 4:45 mark of the first half. The Norsemen came back in the second half to tie the match, and from then on it was a real barnburner.

But then the nationally ranked Roughriders pulled in to win. After Bruce Kretchman hit two free throws, the Norsemen were already behind, but that was some of the strangest ever scene. Crowder Coach Bob Fichter showed an unexpected range of anger in front of the scorer’s bench and grabbed an official by the arm.

A new season of play was set. NEO’s Steve Greer was called for charging just as an inbound pass, and a field goal by Mark Franklin with two seconds left pulled the game out of the fire for the Roughriders.

Ray Addison led Crowder scorers with 13 points on 11 field goals and 3 of 2 from the free-throw line. Bob Williams led the Norsemen with 15 points on 10 shots from the field and five of six from the charity stripe.

By James Ellis

Lomax Ends Former Norseman basketball star Ed Wadsworth paced Texas Tech to a 54-40 victory over the Norsemen in a game Tuesday night in the Carver Coliseum. Wadsworth was leading scorer in the game.

Knepper’s only points came on a free throw in the second half. Wadsworth also hit a 3-pointer to tie the game at 32.

The Norsemen were leading 32-24 at the half. Wadsworth had 12 points in the first half.

Buc losses have been mixed so far this season. The Norsemen have scored 36 points, for an average of 17.5 points per match. The opposition has scored 200 points, an average of 15.8 per game.
