Bradley Named Senate Secretary

Dede Raye, a sophomore from Westville, has resigned her position as secretary of the Student Senate of Northeastern A&M. Miss Raye served only four weeks of her one semester term of office before resigning due to a conflict in her studies and a job as proctor in Vann Hall.

"I had to resign because I really enjoyed it," Miss Raye said. "I just didn't have time for my studies, tennis, and the senate activities at the same time. My grades were suffering so I had to give something up," she added.

"I accepted the job as proctor because it paid me more and I needed it. I couldn't just let it go," Miss Raye said.

Linda Bradley, a sophomore, also a sophomore appointment to fill the vacancy left by Miss Raye's resignation. Miss Bradley will serve for an interim period which will run from now until the December elections for second semester students.

There was some concern in the senate meeting of Sept. 16 about the constitutionality of Miss Bradley's appointment due to Article V, Section I, Clause 1, which states that any vacancies among officers of the Student Senate shall be filled by special election.

"A vote in the senate is considered a special election," stated Melvina Hill, Student Senate president. "It really isn't a special election, but that it is a special election would be too much time, and we would like to get to the Senate appointment passed because we don't have the time," Miss Bradley said. "I was the only one that opposed it.

"I am experienced, and I have served last year as a reporter," commented Miss Hill. "If the position doesn't turn out to be a good position, we might not be as interested as we are now, and we would like to try to give something up."

Future Parking
Close to Creek

NED is putting a new parking lot east of the tennis courts.
The new lot is located on the south side of the tennis courts, near the entrance to the administration building. The lot is being developed to provide additional parking spaces for students and faculty, and to alleviate the current parking problems on campus.

The lot is expected to be completed in the near future and will provide much-needed parking space for the growing student body and faculty. The administration is working closely with the engineering department to ensure that the lot is designed to meet the needs of the campus community.

Quiet Hours

At a student meeting, the issue of quiet hours was discussed. The students were concerned about the noise levels on campus, particularly during the night hours.

The administration has set quiet hours for the campus, from 11 p.m. to 8 a.m., to provide a peaceful environment for students to study and relax. Violation of these hours may result in disciplinary action.

Progress for NEO

The 1975-1976 academic year at NEO has been marked by significant progress and improvements. The campus has undergone many changes and improvements, including the construction of new buildings and the expansion of existing facilities.

Enrollment at the college has continued to grow, with total enrollment reaching 1,500 students. This growth has been attributed to the college's strong academic programs and commitment to providing a quality education.

Dirty Dorms

The dormitories at NEO are in need of some attention. Many students have reported maintenance issues and cleaning problems, which have led to a decrease in the overall quality of the dormitory experience.

Steps are being taken to address these issues, including increased maintenance staffing and improved communication between students and dormitory staff.

Looking back to an almost 40-class reunion game against Oral Roberts University in the spring of 1973, coach Dave Schumacher will reflect on the game as one of the most exciting of his career. The Norse, ranked 8th in the nation, were favored by many to win the game, but Oral Roberts pulled off the upset, winning 31-30. The game was filled with drama, with Oral Roberts scoring the winning touchdown with less than a minute left on the clock. The Norse had a chance to tie the game, but a missed extra point ended the game.

Next week, the Norse will travel to Iowa, trying to continue their winning streak. Coach Schumacher believes his team is playing well and is looking forward to the game.

Norse Women's Soccer

The Norse women's soccer team continued their winning ways, defeating Oral Roberts 2-0 on Saturday. The Norse are now 5-1-1 on the season and are looking to keep their streak going.

Lady Norse Tryouts

With three returning players and 30 hopefuls, the Norse women's soccer team began their tryout process. Coaches Jon Olsson and Jeff Ramsey are excited about the talent on display.

More props are due Mary Beth and Cathy Snarr, who both have so far led the way in practice.

Golf Squad Places Second At Cowdrey

Northeastern's golf team opened the fall portion of the Individual Championship November 13-15 at the Cowdrey Junior College Invitational. The Norse finished second with a team score of 874. This was the Norse's first victory of the season. Coach Schumacher was pleased with the performance of his team.

Leadership Qualities For Tailback Casey

Being a leader on a tradition rich football team is a tough but rewarding job. Coach Casey, a tailback himself, knows the challenges of being a leader.

Casey's leadership qualities include being a good listener, being able to communicate effectively, and setting a good example for his teammates. His leadership style is also based on the values of the Norse football program, which强调 teamwork, hard work, and dedication.

If you're looking for a tailback coach who has been there and done that, look no further than Coach Casey. With a career that has spanned 20 years and a record of 163-61, he is the perfect choice for this position.
Norse Student Also Licensed Airplane Pilot

"There's nothing like flying nothing at all," says Tom Morgan, Northeastern A&K student and licensed pilot. A criminal justice major, Morgan is currently working on his commercial, instrument, and mechanic license and plans on eventually becoming a copilot, he explained. Morgan has never flown in a plane before he remembers Morgan, in his early days, when he was still in high school, working as afool and having fun with the local airport. Morgan was flying for the first time and had found a job as a copilot on a crop-dusting company.

"Then one day the boss said "Take me up in the plane,"" recalls Morgan. ""and that was just it for me."

Since then, Morgan has acquired both his private and multi-engine pilot's license, along with over 500 flying hours. ""Flying is expensive, but it's worth it,"" says Morgan.

Besides taking classes in criminal justice, Morgan is also enrolled in the aviation class offered at A&K. ""Anybody can learn to fly; it's not that hard,"" says Morgan.

A&P Service, Inc. at Miami holds a weekly drawing in the student union for a free introductory ride in an airplane. Besides his job as a mechanic at the Miami airport, Morgan also helps instruct students in the advanced day class at A&K. When asked if flying is dangerous, Morgan replied, ""I feel the only dangerous part of flying is driving out to the airport. It doesn't matter where you are, if you've gotten up, you've gotta go."" ""There's nothing like flying,"" Morgan concluded. ""It's a ball.""

GUN COURSE CONTRIBUTES EXPERIENCE

The reviver course held last fall was well received by the police and the public.

A group of 25 students, 15 men and 10 women, were selected at the range with varying amounts of experience with guns.

The instructors, Jim Green, Miami, police officer, and an anonymous police officer, and a National Rifle Association of America certified instructor, Lloyd Manning, Criminal Justice Instructor at Northeastern A&M, and John Kim, began their training by teaching basic safety and operating procedures, and the proper use of guns. The students were then allowed to do some actual shooting.
