Fall And Summer School Pre-Enrollment Scheduled

Sophomores pre-enrollment for the 1970-71 fall semester at Northeastern A&M will be held April 30 through May 8, according to James T. Glass, college registrar.

Pre-enrollment for summer school classes and Extenu Day School (high school credit) will both be held during the four-day period. Pre-enrollment for eighth-grade school will be from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the Library-Administrative building.

The following procedures will be used for pre-enrollment for most fall, according to Glass. The student must obtain a numbered pre-enrollment permit from the business office. Numbered permits will be given to all students who appear Monday. However, only students whose permit is near 1-288 will be permitted to enter on Monday; 86-68; Tuesday: 86-114; Wednesday: 86-68; and Thursday: 86-168.

Students should obtain an enrollment packet in the registrar's office and report to an adviser. Selections will be held in room 203 of the Library-Administrative building and only in the afternoons hours. Following the selection portion of the enrollment process, the student should validate a housing card and have a picture taken for the campus.

Changes in a student schedule may be made Thursday and Friday, August 12-13 only without a loss of fees and free of change. If any changes are to be made in the student's schedule a written change card should be obtained from the registrar's office.

Students planning to attend summer school should complete an enrollment card and have the card in room 203 of the Library-Administrative building. Students who pre-register will be billed during August and fees are due at least ten days before August 31.

Counselors will be available in the Library-Administrative building from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. the week of enrollment. All international students are to report to Jack Ryder before pre-registering.

Aggie Society Rodeo Slated At Miami Fairgrounds Arena

Cowboys and cowgirls from Oklahoma, Kansas, Arkansas and Missouri comprise more than 30 entries in the sixth annual Northeastern A&M Rodeo, April 11-13, at the Miami Fairgrounds Arena.

The Presentation is sponsored by the Aggie Society at NEDO, will feature performances at 1 p.m., Friday and Saturday; and 1 p.m. Sunday. Admission at the gate will be $3.50 for children under 12 and $3.50 for adults.

Larry Douglas, agriculture instructor at NEDO, announced that entries will be received by phone only, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., April 8. The events are open to anyone under 35 years of age.

Senior Career Week

Departing from many years of tradition, Northeastern A&M College has expanded its traditional Senior Day activities into a College Career Week, April 14-18, according to Dr. D. D. Crook, NEDO president.

High school students from Picher, Wyandotte, Arvon and Coop are expected to participate in Monday activities. Students from Picher, Welch, Coop and Drumright will visit the campus on Tuesday while students from Wynona, Miami, Buster Springs, Spiro, Beulah, M. King, Barlow, and the current reigning Miss Rodeo Oklahoma, will serve as guest during the Thursday event. Highlighting the weekend of activities will be a dance at the Carrier Student Union following the rodeo on Saturday night. The dance is free and sponsored by the NEDO student council.

Each day activities will begin at 9 a.m. with registration in the Fine Arts Building. From 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. the students will receive orientation concerning the program, and will then visit the campus on Wednesday.

"The Tempest"

Rehearsals To Continue

By Joyce Kelham

Casting for "The Tempest," Northeastern A&M's fourth drama production of the season, has been completed and rehearsals are continuing, according to Don Nichols, director of the production.

Presentation of the play written nearly 360 years ago by William Shakespeare is scheduled for April 11 at 5 p.m. and April 12 at 2 p.m. in the Fine Arts Theater. Individual advanced reserved seat tickets cost $2 for adults and $1.50 for students. Reservations may be made by phoning 457-8660 before a performance on a specific night or afternoon.

"The play has been given a modern touch by being set in the far future," commented Nichols. "In this star trek setting, battles are fought with ray guns and space storms are used to add excitement to the production."

Rehearsals continue.

Plot for the story revolves around Duke Prospero, portrayed by Alex Johnson, Miami, who has lost his kingdom to his son Antonio, played by Delores Womack, Miami. The Duke is cast adult in an old rotton ship with his baby daughter Miranda, portrayed by Robin Mcpayer, Nokomis.

NEW NATIONAL PASTIME? One of the most popular campus pastimes at Northeastern A&M is football, which is similar to soccer in rules, but played in miniature.

Senate Provides Answers

Students on this campus often criticize the actions of the Student Senate. These students usually don't stop and try to find out what's going on in the Senate. In fact, they just keep on criticizing.

The following questions were asked of James Lee, a sophomore from Sepulveda who is the vice-president of the Senate. His answers to these complaints most often voiced on NRO's campus should satisfy some of those "curious minds."

Question: How does the Senate make any noticeable progress during the past school year?
Answer: All anyone that was here last year has to do is see progress in open his eyes. If you'll remember, last year all our candidates for this board were two men, Wednesday, from 2:30-3:30 p.m. and Friday from 2:30-3:30 p.m. This year it is four days a week: Monday from 6:30-10 p.m., Tuesday 2:30-5 p.m., Thursday 2:30-4 p.m. and Friday from 6:30-12 midnight.

Question: 11 so, why aren't the results of this progress noticeable?
Answer: People seldom notice it when things get better, not when they get worse. You can hear them yell "change," but we probably shouldn't have to beg very hard for the administration to put girls back on hours and to eliminate violation hours all together. Then I wonder if people would notice the step backwards.

Question: Why doesn't the Senate do something besides sponsor a movie and an occasional event?
Answer: The Senate is given EGD00 to work with. This semester this figure amounts to less than $1 per person.

Question: If the Senate's main reason for existing is to voice the opinion of the student body, why is it that the majority of the students on campus very rarely agrees with the Senate on certain issues of importance?
Answer: I would like to say that I wholeheartedly agree with the Senate that the student should be the voice of the student body. The factual part: Why, then, doesn't the student body use it for its designed purpose? Our meetings are open to everyone. What we are planning and blogging for ideas, where was the student body?

Question: What can be done about the problem of alienation among commuter students?
Answer: This problem is one that has buffed the Senates of past years as well as this one. I think that you have to realize that one reason students choose a college close to their home, aside from the obvious economic factor, is the convenience of continuing their lives much as they were doing at home. They don't have to establish a new social life; the rest of us. They already have friends and families close by to take the place of campus activities. But the Senate does have the power to make the commuters feel like they are a part of things.

Letters of reaction from students regarding any of these issues are encouraged.

Tampering With Foosball

It seems as though the greatest majority of people are having to pay for the mistakes of a few dishonest individuals. One case that presents itself in the North-Horne recreation area.

Earlier in the year the foosball tables were removed from this recreation area because someone was "tampering" with the coins. As soon as the machines were removed students complained that the area was lacking in activity.

Essentially the tables were removed, as rather than take the more direct approach of trying to try the coin box open, some person could bring money into the machine, small change into their own bags and stuff paper into the coin box.

The vendor who wasn't making any money with the open coin box again put the machines back in.

Some Absences Are Legit

Three absences and your grade automatically drops from an A to a B; or from a B to a C; or a C to a D, or from a D to an F. Maybe, just maybe, these three absences were a necessity and not just a couple of foosball games as some people tend to think.

You know it is a true fact that people have doctor and dentist appointments, car troubles, the sick mothers and fathers do get sick, people do die. Now I know a lot of students use these excuses loudly and those who use them legitimately are punished for it. So, to cut down on the absences the rule that if you miss three class periods, your grade drops a letter. It sounds to be a good way to get people to class more often.

But it isn't working. Instructors aren't sticking to the rule. Some allow a student nine or ten absences before they call him in for a consultation. Of course if the student were a responsible person, the need for a consultation shouldn't arrive in the first place.

Maybe, if the instructors weren't so quick to listen in the application of this rule, the amount of absences and how excuses would drop and the students with legitimate reasons for missing class won't be punished separable.

By Elizabeth Smith

No Courtesy

Why is it that some instructors don't have the courtesy to go to class on time when they have a room full of students waiting on them?

As a student, it's very annoying to go into a classroom at ten minutes after the hour and then sit and wait ten or twenty more minutes before the instructor finally shows up. If it is always going to be the case, students might as well sit in class whenever they feel like coming.

Granted; many students on this campus have a hectic case of always being late - no matter what they're doing - and some even bother to show their forms at all. But a teacher is for the benefit of those who want to learn. They're not here to stand out in the hallway during class and talk about last weekend's fishing trip and the "big one that got away." An instructor should not cause those who want to make the most of their educational opportunities wait.

College instructors should take care of other business outside of class and take care of classroom business during class. Also, the students, as well as the instructors, should try to become more responsible as far as the matter of getting to class on time is concerned.

Kerry's Corner

Have you looked around the Student Center lately? It's hard not to notice the remodelling and renovation projects going on. If you have, then you've seen that Shipley Hall is now air-conditioned and the new lab is next to it. Air-conditioning is Shipley is a long-awaited luxury for summer school students who used to want their paper by making fees as they were trying to keep cool. Maybe now they can keep their minds on the class instead of the heat.

The new tennis courts, located between Robertson Field and the fieldhouse will also be a welcome addition when they are complete. They are being built through the Student Body Fund and should have been finished on April 1, but something happened and the deadline wasn't quite met. Beginning the fall term, students will be able to receive credit towards physical education requirements by taking tennis classes.

And, of course, there's the remodeling of Cmonster Hall. Cunningham may look like the same run-down building on P-

Coulter, but the interior of the building is a different story. Now instead of those drab classrooms with poor lighting and creative artworks, this floor consists of modern offices, facilities, and even a classroom.

Cunningham houses the latest update of student services facilities. The classrooms are bright and cheery with efficient lighting, lab facilities include the latest equipment, and the restrooms - well, just an up-to-date. In addition to these improvements, the Little Theatre has been transformed into a 100 seat study room that will seat about 40 or 50 students. All in all, Cunningham Hall is new one of the most modern and spicier buildings on campus.

Come on, stop by and check it out - as far as improvements of the grounds are concerned anyway. I just hope the students and everyone else associated with this institution enjoy and appreciate what is being done.

Financial Aids Help Students Supplement Families Income

By Sue Carroll

“Financial aid is a service to a student to supplement his family’s ability to put him through college if the necessity exists,” according to Fred Robbins, financial officer at Northeastern A&M.

There are several types of financial aid offered at NAD. Among them is the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant Program, need-based, to students who start post-secondary education after April 1, 1972, and who are enrolled on a full-time basis if the financial need is established.

The Bureau of Indian Affairs offers a grant program to students who are on or off the reservation.

The National Direct Student Loan Program is offered to students who are enrolled at half-time in a participating postsecondary institution and who need a loan to meet their educational expenses.

The Pell Grant Program offers financial assistance to these students majoring in law enforcement.

For students of exceptional need there is the Supplemental Educational Grant Program that helps students who would otherwise be unable to continue their education because of financial need.

The College Work Study Program offers jobs to students who have great financial need and meet part of the educational expenses.

The Warman Loan Program makes financial loans available to nursing students.

The Guaranteed Bank Loan Program enables a student to borrow directly from a bank, credit union, savings and loan association, or other participating lender who is willing to make the educational loan to you.

Students who apply for these programs must first fill out the necessary applications and then their eligibility can be established by the use of proper guidelines that pertain to the program in question. The students’ resources are then compared to their educational needs and if a deficiency is found the student is eligible for a school based grant.

Among the financial criteria taken into consideration are personal contributions and savings from summer employment.

Due to the increased cost of living, financial aid offices have raised the budgets of students attending college at NAD. The resident budget for the 1973-74 school year has been raised from $1,000 to $1,500 and the commuter’s budget has been raised from $1,500 to $2,000. The biggest increase has come for the married students who now have a $2000 budget compared to the previous year of $1750.

In the end, the two financial aid officers, Fred Robbins and Fred Thorkelsson, make the final decision on who is eligible for the campus based programs. The eligibility for the other programs is based on guidelines established by the programs themselves.

“Educational opportunities are now greater than they have ever been and if students really desire to further their education, the means are available,” concluded Robbins.

Traveling Poet Claims Dreams Create Imagiary

By David Dillinger

Chas Trumans, English Instructor at NAD and owner and manager of the Christian Bookstore in Monterey, has recently had a book published.

Trumans’ book is a collection of poetry and prose, entitled “A jar of shoes and potting soil come up.”

Trumans, a tall and distinctive speaker, received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Joaquin College, South Dakota, and a Master of Divinity degree from Berkeley Baptist Divinity School, Berkeley, Calif. He obtained his Master’s degree from Stanford University.

With a look of satisfaction, Trumans explained, “I got 14 to 15 miles per gallon at 25,000 feet or about 15 m.p.g. on an average. Of course it depends up on how much weight you carry, how high you fly, and what the winds are.”

“Although the replacement value of the plane today is about $50,000, including the $5000 of radio equi- pment, which Trumans installed himself, it meets all the Federal Aviation Agency requirements for big-city airports.”

Trumans discussed several frightening experiences he has had while flying. “One time I had to climb to an altitude of 20,000 feet to escape a cold front, which had caused all the windows of my plane to freeze over.”

His one fear was that the plane might come apart while he was flying. “I never did like to drive in the highway, still don’t. I come to enjoy flying a great deal, except for some of the regulations which hinder me.”

Office Provides Student Service For Job Seekers

Students who will be seeking full-time employment upon departure from Northeastern A&M may contact Dave Ferguson, placement director, in the placement office on the second floor of the Library- Administration building for information regarding the service.

The placement director will guide the student in developing a layout for a resume and all literature in the office are all disposed of the search.

The Student Employment Security office is now fulfilling the NAD placement office’s need with a duty of all jobs available throughout the area. This list includes all type employment; both professional and non-professional, skilled and unskilled.

Ferguson stresses that now is the time to students to look for both summer jobs and full-time employment. “It is best to seek a job now, but when school is out and there is competition,” said Ferguson.

“I would also like the students to realize that even though they may not have a need for the placement office now, if they have filled out a resume previously, and need our services later, we are sure to service them.”

Ferguson does an absolute in this unusual arrangement because a multi-millionaire investor who is interested in discussions about getting older will real and life are passing by him.

Track Season Nears End For Thinclds

"We are doing better this year than any NOS track team has been in quite a few years," commented an enthusiastic Bob Kramer, coach of the Norse. "And we are still getting better."

With the season half over, NOS now has only 4 meets to go: Wewoka State University Relays, April 12, at Wewoka; Kansas University Relays, April 13-15, at Lawrence, Kan.; Southwest Missouri State University Relays, April 29, at Springfield, Mo.; and the NCAA Region II meet, May 1, at Wilberforce.

"For the most part we will see fewer competitors for the rest of the year, because of the larger meets we will be competing in," predicted Kramer, "but the good showing the squad made at the two meets this week, points to a good performance at the largest meets.

Kyle McKelvey and Tony Munday were cited as being the leading point producers for the Norse this far. McKelvey specializes in the shot put, discus, and javelin. Munday long jumps, triple jumps, and competes in relay.

"The best times of the season should be seen at Wewoka," said Kramer, "taking into account their synthetic surfaced track. Our runners are looking forward to it and I certainly hope we have a good day weatherwise so we can really backs.

Magill Wins Medal In Golf Tournament

Northeastern A&M's Mike Magill shot a 78 to win medalist honors in the weather shortened Oklahoma City Southwestern Institutional Golf Tournament.

The tournament, held last week in Oklahoma City, ended with Westark Junior College Lions of Port Smith, Ark., winning honors with a team total of 323 strokes.

Coach Al McNeil's Normans were not only affected by the weather, but Illinois lost two members of the squad home. Magill's 18 was low for the match while Red Kintz shot an 88 for the other Norse score.

Following Westark in team scores were Oklahoma City and Seminole tied for second with 27. Fourth place went to Crowder with a team score of 320, while Claremore finished with a 339 score to take fifth place. St. Gregory's finished ninth in the tournament with a 373 score.

Three other schools entered only one player each. Vernon Junior College, of Vernon, Texas withdraw from the tournament because of the weather conditions.

If you would like to donate a missing, damaged or incomplete copy of The Norsewind, please contact the NEO Library.
