Risenhoover Schedules Commencement Speech

Second District Congresswoman Ted Risenhoover will present the commencement address to the 418 Northeastern A&M College graduates during the spring convocation, May 8, at 9 a.m. in the Robinson Field athletic stadium.

Risenhoover, who was elected to represent the Second District in Congress in the 1968 election, served for four years on the Civil Service Commission and was chairman of the Corrections Committee. The Corrections Committee dealt with prison problems and reform of Oklahoma's parole system.

A member of Congress, he has been assigned to the committees on Education and Labor, Interstate and Insular Affairs, the Select Committee on Aging, and the Tax Reform Committee of New Members. Risenhoover was the first new member to join the House of Representatives.

"Ballad Of Baby Doe" Final Drama Production

Northeastern A&M College Music and Theatre departments are preparing for the final production of the Spring season, "The Ballad Of Baby Doe," to be presented May 2 and 3 at 8 p.m. and on Sunday, May 5 at 2 p.m.

The Ballad of Baby Doe is a musical drama by Douglas Moore, with text and lyrics by Richard M. Kellogg. The drama is based on the true story of Baby Doe Tabor, a Colorado silver heiress.

The story is true to American history and deals with the American silver or gold standard struggle. But in the story, conflict is a love triangle between Baby Doe Tabor, Baby Doe Adams (Becky Walker, Omaha, Neb.), and her former lover.

Other characters include are Donna Whitter, Tulsa; Terry, Hidden, Douver, Keith Kristensen, Commerce; Vic Bright, Tulsa; Jim Reid, Chatham, Kewa Edmundson, Tulsa; Ed Lynch, Bartlesville; Karen Kalse, Oklahoma City; Charles Schmidt, Tulsa; and Pernell Lee, Shakopee.

The drama will be presented in the Fine Arts building.

Record Of Hits

Northeastern A&M's Master Singers, under the direction of Clark Dodger, are recording a record of their most popular selections from this year.

The full-length album will be available at a limited supply for 50 cents each.

"The Best of the Master Singers" is being recorded by American Artists Incorporation in Springfield, Mo., and will be sent directly to the buyer upon completion.

Several of the songs on the album will be from their March 31 concert in which they performed many recent songs by several famous recording stars.
Senate President Asides

As the spring semester begins, Senate President, I have a few comments I would like to make. I think this office gives me one of the best learning experiences I've ever had, especially about human nature.

I think the most important aspect of the NED campus is students. Only the American people, students, can create the new campuses. I think students are the heart of the university. We need to encourage the students to be involved, to participate, and be involved if they are only encouraged by our society and "the system." This is why I started the Senate president's office. We encourage both praise and criticism. Things done on campus, even though much of the time work done is not seen by the Senate members personally, who do not receive the credit they deserve.

The students on campus who want something changed should speak to the students' senators. I know much of the time their questions seem unimportant, but you must remember that your comments are totaled with those of the other students on campus. All in all, there are a lot of pressures to try and please and to do what is best for the students and faculty and there are many different backgrounds and beliefs represented. I'm kind of looking forward to the summer and a little rest. I'm sure I'll enjoy being the Senate president.

I would like to thank everyone for being a part of the Senate and the campus. I also want to encourage you to take a more active role in next year's Senate, I know it will be deeply appreciated.

Reasons to Save Old Texts, New Uses

Once more, many students will find that some of their textbooks will not be bought back in the bookstore due to the use of new editions.

Most students are disgusted if they think the old book is used over and over again they can get some money back. However, if the same textbook was used for many years, the course that used it would become outdated and obsolete.

Many recent editions and political elections would not be covered in the book. The student in that course would miss out on the knowledge that could have been gotten only from the recent events. Thus there is a sound basis for the use of up-to-date textbooks.

Colored or black and white illustrations in some of the books can be cut out and used for decoupage in case you're artistically inclined. If you have children or are not going to use the book, you can cut it out and use as a children's history book.

If you have valuable textbooks you haven't sold yet, the center of the book can be cut out and used as a secret hiding place like a Ellery Queen or a Nancy Drew.

If there are enough non-transferable books in your possession, you can make even your own designer's chair, table, whatever, by cutting the textbooks together in stackable shapes, even if the finished product would be optional. Students who simply cannot stand the mere sight of their unsalable book can still get good mileage out of it by sending it to the beloved aunt or uncle's library as a surprise Christmas present.

And then, of course, you're allowed enough, there is the alternative of using the book in the garbage can. That seems such a waste for a six-dollar or dollar book, considering the possibilities. Why let the garbage have it?

Talent Show

Is the annual NED Talent Show the best 3% of the Student Senate's budget for a semester? The Student Senate is allocated $1,000 per semester to use in any way it wants, in order to promote student activities. This last semester they spent nearly $800 on the talent show alone. I think this money could have been more wisely spent elsewhere.

Many campus activities are available or presented by the Student Senate, ranging from movies to dances and outdoor events. The average cost of a movie is just over $80, while semester-performed dances average nearly $50. In place of the talent show the Senate could have offered another dance and two more movies.

While the talent show, as I am sure everyone will agree, is much more prestigious, it looks better to the Miami townpeople.

Financing

The only question that must be asked is whether or not the Senate should continue this event.

The money should be spent on student activities and I feel that the students would prefer to have the dances and the movies.

Although I am sure there are some people who would like to participate, I think this money could have been more wisely spent.

The four NSObjectians in the audience should be grateful for their senator's attendances, and I think the Senate should be more involved in the community.

The vote is up to the students, so vote on whether or not the Senate should continue the Talent Show.

Pre-enrollment

Pre-enrollment for the fall semester for next year was handled quickly and easily. This time there was no nagging or welfare of being put into the bureaucracy. The pre-enrollment was definitely done the right way.

Oddly enough, the number of students who signed up for enrollment was probably one of the best learning experiences we've ever had, especially about human nature.

The students on campus who want something changed should speak to the students' senators. I know much of the time their questions seem unimportant, but you must remember that your comments are totaled with those of the other students on campus. All in all, there are a lot of pressures to try and please and to do what is best for the students and faculty and there are many different backgrounds and beliefs represented. I'm kind of looking forward to the summer and a little rest, even though I'm sure I'll enjoy being the Senate president.

I would like to thank everyone for being a part of the Senate and the campus. I also want to encourage you to take a more active role in next year's Senate, I know it will be deeply appreciated.

Another semester, another year ends. It's been fun working on the staff of the Norse Wind and associating with those few who have contributed to our newspaper. We've seen such things as dorms on the parking lot, cool-boards, time flying days, the Norse Banquet, the Aggie banquet, and the International Banquet. We've seen great drama productions like "The Tertnomin," campus revue in Cocconett and I opus as well as other places. Also, a change in the enrollment procedure has evolved into a job that takes to enroll in fall. People have come out of their high school and college days, and getting to know other people from all parts of the country, even across foreign countries. Those who came here with an actual direction in life have now decided on a definite goal for which to strive during their lifetime.

Along with the work and endeavors of all of it all, there have been a fun side, too. For instance, all the parties and events at The Ranch or wherever. I'm sure you knew there were many people more excited than the ones mentioned here, but I'm sure you also know this is just a few of the things that make our lives. Each person has his own personal memories and feelings.

To you graduating seniors, we, the staff of the Norse Wind, say congratulations and good luck in whatever you decide to do in life. And to all of you freshmen, well, you've made it through your first year of college and are presumably off in a good start in the race of life. Good luck and see you next year.
Vandals Flooding Causes Electrical Fire In Dorm

Water pouring down a ventilation shaft, causing a short circuit in an electrical outlet, is cited as the cause of a blaze that broke out in Room 217 of the Northeastern A&M men’s dormitory at approximately 7 a.m. on April 21.

“We heard a sound like someone was pacing around, and smelled the smoke,” said David Grant, a freshman. “When we opened the door, the smoke was so thick we couldn’t see the light bulb.”

Kenneth Bailey, a junior; Greg Plunkett, a sophomore; Eddie Bonner, a junior; and James Gray, a sophomore, were credited with extinguishing the blaze by using the hose and water from their first-floor room. There were no injuries to any of the occupants, but the fire caused an estimated $500 worth of damage to the room.
