Tuition Cost Unpredictable

There is no way to determine whether tuition costs will rise again at SDSU in the near future, according to D.D. Council, president of the college.

Tuition costs for SDSU are determined each year by the Board of Regents for the A&M campuses and colleges. The reason for the Board of Regents raising tuition costs last year was to compensate for the rising cost of building education, according to Council.

The 1972-73 academic year was $1.05 per credit hour. In 1973-74 the cost per credit hour was $1.05 per credit hour. A substantial increase in SDSU's budget resulted from this two-year budget increase, according to Council. The new budget for 1973-74 student last year was $2,357,042, as compared to $2,700,400 in the previous year and a budget of $2,500,000.

Dorm Policy Reviewed

As planned at the North Campus Assembly on Nov. 14 instead of Nov. 7 as previously published. The topic of dorms and their effect on student living is being discussed at this week's meeting. According to Chris Farnham, student assembly president, there will be dorms during basketball season, with the exception of the second floor. "We will have a Christmas Dorm for the student this week," said Farnham.

"Hard Times" is a one-of-a-kind adventure film that will be shown Nov. 16 at 8 p.m. at the Student Union ballroom. Director Walter Hill captured the depression-oriented New Orleans atmosphere with its most authentic, quirky characters, portraying and scary ghosts. The film, which was shot on location, is currently being distributed in theaters across the nation.

REW Successful

The opening assembly for Religious Emphasis Week began Monday, November 1, with several students from the hospital Student procession.

When compared to REW last year, students reported that attendance was up, there was greater program participation, and a general feeling of unity was projected among those who came in contact with the activities provided.

This feeling may be attributed to the well planned program and the speaker, George Brazell. Many students were touched by his inspiring comments for everyone present.

The only point that I could see was the closing assembly Wednesday night. There seemed to be an overabundance of words and less enthusiasm resulted. However, the week was a definite success.

The Horse Wind Staff wishes to congratulate all students and faculty who worked hard to make the week the success it was.

Pep Rally Problem Resolved

Dear Editor:

Roger and I owe almost everything we get to our coaches and teachers. We find that our coaches and teachers are outstanding individuals, and one of the reasons for this is that they care about us. We need to be thankful for this, and we need to make sure that we are not taking their help for granted.

This past week, our pep rally was successful. We had a great turnout, and everyone had a great time. We want to thank everyone who came out to support our team. We appreciate your support and look forward to the next game.

Students who are used to being the best in their class may find it difficult to adjust to the results of the tests. We are used to being the best, and we are not used to being average. We are used to being the best, and we are not used to being average.

This can be a difficult transition, but it is important to remember that we are all unique and have different strengths and weaknesses. We should not be afraid to ask for help, and we should be willing to do our best.

"The show must go on!" is a saying beloved throughout the drama field, yet it was nearly imperatively shouted by Randall Opiea,insics.

Opiea, a drama major, was acting in Independence at the University of Nebraska at Omaha when, following the first act, he became ill.

"He's been going around all day long, saying he wasn't feeling good and complaining," commented Jeanne Clark, Miami.

Instructor Feels Polity Important

"Political science is important in nearly every aspect of life," claims George Lager, Northeastern A&M's political science instructor.

NDO currently offers three courses in political science. Larger says, "I would like to see some better political science programs in the schools. We need something for people with political science backgrounds in government and also a normal selection for those who need additional help."

Lager, who joined the faculty in 1970, says that there are many job opportunities for a person holding a degree in political science. "Government provides a good background for law school or criminal justice study," he adds.

Multi-institutional programs are being offered to help people with a back ground in the field. To help understand the economic and political system in a country where they are interested in enrolling in their own institution. Larger.

Public relations and city government are two other areas for possible entry. Some type of course in federal government is required of all college students in Nebraska. "This is important because we live in a democracy, and we need to have a knowledge of how democracy works.

Freshman Leads Norse Offense

By STEVE SPEARING

Winning is not a condition in the background of Noramin quarterback Bill Vining. That was proven in the season opener at Tulsa East Central. Vining's team failed to maintain a winning season. Winning is to NEO with national championship aspirations around campus. Vining was somewhat scored at first. "It was like a dream at first and I definitely wanted to be a part of it," commented Vining. "The previous team was virtually invisible after our opening loss but having a winning season was very much important to us," added Vining.

Vining was 6-0, 186, all in fact became a very big part of Northeastern A&M's success. Vining, who is the son of Oklahoma A&M's football coach, was not considered a blue-chip recruit. Vining has thrown the ball 172 times with 70 completions for a 500 percent. The completing has covered 1,699 yards and have scored 10 touchdowns. Rushing, Vining has scored 141 yards on 97 carries for a TD.

Leadership was also contributed by Vining to the winning season. "Bill was definitely the leader on his high school team, in our team, and will continue to be a future star," said coach Bob Berry. "We recruited him over others from that very reason," added Berry.

Vining has proved to be an idol after the loss of the first game. Rushing is the main ingredient used in a winning option. By not concentrating too much on the..."}

Softball is a sport that needs a lot of practice. "When the ball is hit, you can't keep loose. Playing tight and tight you can't play your best."

The Norse opened the season with a 7-1 win over the University of Akron. "It was a great win. We scored early and often," said Vining. "We were able to get on the board quickly and control the game."

The Norse followed with a 5-0 shutout of the University of Toledo. "We played well defensively," said Vining. "Our pitching was strong and our defense was solid."

The Norse then faced off against the University of Cincinnati. "It was a tough game," said Vining. "But we managed to come out on top with a 4-2 win."

The Norse continued their winning streak with a 6-1 victory over the University of Dayton. "We hit the ball well," said Vining. "Our batters were on fire and our defense was solid."

The Norse then faced off against the University of Toledo again. "It was a close game," said Vining. "But we managed to come out on top with a 3-2 win."

Northwestern AMHS' offensive production against the Dodge City Comets was so good that the Comets wore down in the fourth period. The Comets needed to be on their best behavior during the second quarter, when the Comets scored. In the fourth quarter, the Comets scored again, this time on a field goal. The Comets scored a total of 9 points in the game.

The Comets' next opponent was the Buffs, with whom they played on Saturday. The Comets scored 15 points in the game, while the Buffs scored 20 points. The Comets' next opponent will be the Regents, whom they will play on Sunday. The Comets hope to continue their winning streak against the Regents.

ECONOMICS RESPONSIBLE FOR CANCELLATION

Economics have taken the toll on the Golden Naugahyde schedule with the cancellation of the Mexico-University of Northwestern game set for Saturday night at Robinson Field. Due to the recent devaluation of the Mexican peso, the University athletic budget can't afford springing expenses. During the summer, the pesos were valued at 15 pesos per dollar. The pesos are now valued at 27 pesos for each U.S. dollar.

I cannot guard the dorms, we just have to let the students take care of their own things. The dorms have to be well-locked. The money the college charges for rent and board goes to the payment of bonds, salaries, and salaries for the dorm.

If some of the things were locked up in more than they were taken in,

we have no choice but to raise the rent," stated Mr. Young.

Another question raised was one of maintenance. It seems that a broken window was found a week ago and was not replaced. It seems that the problem with the glass is a house who supplies the glass for broken windows.

NEOS can call the company to get them to return glass and they also do calls on long periods of time.

Young said the proper way to report any damage is to tell the dorm mother who sends a request to maintenance. If she has to get the damage repaired but nothing is done, then come to me.
