Current Music Students Attend Audition

Music students will present the National Association of Teachers of Singing, to be held from Nov. 7 to 9, at Oklahoma University, Norman, Okla. Students attending the auditions are: David Truett, associate professor of music; J. R. Helm, professor of music; and J. R. Helm, professor of music education. Students majoring in music education are: Betty Haney, soprano voice; John Horn, bass voice; and John Horn, teacher of voice. John Horn and John Horn are music majors. These students were chosen on the basis of audition held within the music department.

The students were chosen in these auditions on the basis of talent that would best represent our college,” said Kenneth Richards, music instructor.

“The NAATS audition consists of a three-state representation from the Midwest, New Mexico, Texas and Oklahoma, where music students represented in this state are chosen from current students,” Richards said.

Senators Announce Bowl Game Buses Available

The Best Bowl Empire Game was the topic of discussion at the weekly senate meeting.

According to Julia S., chair of student affairs, NEO will provide charter buses to transport football fans, New Year's Eve, and the New Year’s Eve in Norman, Okla. The buses will be 25 passenger buses, and the buses will run on a 1:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. schedule. The buses will be available to the public at a charge of $15 per bus.

They are really going all out for this game,” said Yuval, president of the Student Body. “We have a lot of money in the budget to make sure the students have a good time.”

According to Yuval, the buses will run on a 1:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. schedule. The buses will be available to the public at a charge of $15 per bus.

New Orleans Conference Helps Foreign Students

On Oct. 20th and 22nd, T. W. Thompson, foreign student advisor, took a group of foreign students to New Orleans, Louisiana. While there, they observed the exhibits and visited various cultural attractions. Following the tour, the students attended the conference on Foreign Students in American Society. The conference was held at Tulane University's Hertzler Hall. The conference was attended by foreign students from various universities in the United States.

Dorms Lack Lavatory Aid

Dear Editor:

As one of your editors, I am appalled at the lowness of the morale on this campus. Aside from the fact that there is no self-service laundry, the dorms lack such amenities as soap, shampoo, and deodorant. Students are forced to use the facilities in the common areas, which are often dirty and unsanitary.

I urge the administration to take immediate action to improve the living conditions for the students. The lack of basic amenities is not only unsanitary but also detrimental to the health and well-being of the students.

Sincerely,

NEO Inquiry On Facilities

Dear Editor:

I have noticed that the Norton Student Union does not have any facilities for students. There are no restrooms, no places to study, and no place to eat. This is unacceptable and I believe the administration should take steps to improve this situation.

Training Seminars Not In Existence

Unlike many larger institutions, Northeastern A&M College does not hold seminars or training courses to help the women on campus become more academically productive. However, women students still have the opportunity to participate in a state seminar on Higher Education and Women, slated for the week of October 18th.

Two women faculty members, Carol Calkins, Norton Star director and Marilyn Converse, reading instructor, have attended a planning meeting and are currently working to encourage attendance by faculty and students.

“We need to emphasize the woman’s role on campus. I would encourage all women, to get involved in this seminar. By attending, we can prepare ourselves to begin on-campus organizations to help women to get the most out of our secondary institution,” says Marilyn Converse.

The theme for the seminar is “Women in Administration and Policy Making” with discussion groups dealing with topics of interest to both staff and students. Goals should be identified in “Women’s Programs” and “New Directions in Career Guidance for Women.”

The faculty will have an opportunity to discuss “Teaching Limits,” “Tenure,” “Committee Structures,” “Presidential Selection,” or “Working with Male Administrators.”

The seminar will be held at the Hilton Inn Northwest beginning at 9 a.m. and will adjourn at 3 p.m.

Dr. Barbara Uehling, Provost of the University of Oregon, will be the luncheon speaker. Her topic will be “Working through the system to achieve success for higher education administration.”

Intramurals Exaggerated

In college sports, it is common to observe a number of students who dominate the teams. It is not uncommon for a team to consist of only a few individuals.

Scene: a college dorm room, Friday, students gone for the weekend, a study session that turned into a party that turned into a lecture that everyone had to leave.

Enter: the dorm mother, checking on the whereabouts of the three. The mother: the person who makes sure everyone is safe and sound, the person who attends to the needs of the students.

Two residents sit in the dorm room, their eyes fixed on the television. The mother: the person who makes sure everyone is safe and sound, the person who attends to the needs of the students.

Students living in dormitories at Northeastern A&M College are led to believe that dorm rooms give them the best of both worlds: a place to study and a place to enjoy themselves.

But the students soon learn that this is not the case. The dorm rooms are often noisy, and the students are often interrupted by loud music and conversations.

Sincerely,

Area Museum Interesting

Editor's Note: The following article was written as an assignment for a creative writing class and is printed in the public's interest.

By Bonnie Holmes

Instead of spending the afternoon grapping that the surrounding area never seems to do much, or having a hundred miles to run for a reason why don't you do it, I did and spend an afternoon at the Delaware Museum.

I thought I was checking a big mistake when I went to the Delaware Museum of Natural History. It's not a new one. Many of the younger kids still think there is nothing at an entertainment of this for them to associate with what the Delaware Museum is.

The museum's exhibits of the month and the over 3,000 depictions of each large variety of creatures that are living and being collected at any moment to explain.

A large collection ofPresident's depictions plus held no interest for me and I had never seen a crawling insect in my life. However, I had never seen a spider before and this is now a very common arachnid in the Delaware Museum. That's why I think some people use the word when they are on a vacation. It makes me wonder when I think of what I am doing financially at least when I look at it.

It is a unique American phenomenon that a symbol of the "old days" never ceases to surprise.

A "Young Presidents" reading machine along with an enormous collection of wooden and early Delaware depictions plus people using the American art of life through the Mechanical Age.

A large collection of depictions and business engravings of the early period explains why women didn't break into the business world today as there was no resistance.

Many of the exhibits come around the exhibits from the area and for some people who have never ridden a train, or been around the city or even for those who live here, it is fascinating to see these displays. As time goes on, more and more of our children will only know the railroad by what they see at the Delaware Museum.

Traveling by train was a status symbol in our early history, and one of the museum displays is a set of dining room silver from the Speaker and Sample, the George Northern Railroad, which merged with the Burlington Northern Railroad.

An opera house from the old Opera House was painted at the Delaware Museum, and the views from the opera house area was a vast cultural center and that the artistic and cultural programs determined here when moving simultaneously.

As a family living through the struggles of the present and tomorrow, we need to remember that our long-term working is the Delaware Museum. However, at over 250-year-old lady sad and sad to see the history of the area in the museum. The past two weeks the Delaware Museum have been the Delaware Museum.

Some photographs show the Delaware Museum in all its beauty and grace, lost on the walls of the moment, and to a level. A photograph at the Delaware Museum shows a scene, making a painting of reality along with a presence of the gold and then black and white.

The Delaware High School class of 1965 has their "In Our Own Words" exhibit in the Delaware Museum. The exhibit, "In Our Own Words" is open to the public. The Delaware Museum has been the Delaware Museum.

New Art of Glass: Steve Swogger, Mains, creates glass blown in the glass blowing glass blown at the Delaware Museum. He always puts the Delaware Museum. He was able to find a museum at that standing glass for the first time in their history.

The Delaware Museum has been in operation since 1854. This unique display is open to the public Monday, Wednesday, and Friday 11:00 a.m.-5:00 p.m. Private tours are available in school groups or at the Delaware Museum. Arrangements may be made by calling the Delaware Museum, 542-7100.
Norsemen Accept Bid To Beef Bowl Contest

BY STEVE SPEARING
Sports Editor

Northwestern A&M's Golden Norsemen recently accepted an invitation to play in the inaugural Beef Bowl Empire Classic in Garden City, Kan. Coach Bob Berry of the Norsemen made the announcement last week and will meet the Garden City Community College in the Nov. 20 game.

Berry said the Norsemen have missed being able to compete against Garden City.

Northwest A&M has five games remaining. The Norsemen are currently tied with the Earman-Jay High School Conference lead.

The Norsemen have not been to a post-season tournament since 1972 — the final year of the Kansas Conference.

This year's opponent will be Garden City Community College. The Norsemen are 3-1-1 and 2-0 in conference play, while the Garden City College is 9-2 overall.

NEO women's basketball squad, led by coach Bob Berry, will open the 1977-78 regular season Nov. 19-20, when the Norsemen travel to West Fork, Ark., to participate in the West Fork Festival.

Coach Berry, who has led the Norsemen to three straight conference championships, is excited about the upcoming season.

Western Kansas, Garden City, Pittsburg, Ellsworth Community College, Seward County, Garden City Community College and Hutchison are among the teams that will be competing.

Berry's team will be led by senior center Barbara Nordstrom, who was named to the First Team all-Conference last year.

Norsemen End Season Traveling To Dodge City

Northwestern IABM's Golden Norsemen will travel to Dodge City Community College at Dodge City, Kan., for a 7:30 p.m. clash with the Big Red.

Coach Bob Dorman's Norsemen scored a big job for the Big Red bowl after dropping to Pratt, 20-7, last November at Robinson Field. The Norsemen are ranked seventh by the nation and will try to close the season with a victory. Dorman predicts the Norsemen will score between 15 and 20 points.

George Cuff will be the Norsemen's quarterback and will be surrounded by a strong line. Cuff, a 15-year-old junior, will be the fourth straight player to step up to the job. The Norsemen have scored 47 yards in the last five games.

Return trip in the regular season is their only game against a team with an unblemished record. The Norsemen will host Fort Scott, 28-7, in the last regular season game.

Norse Campus Ministry Plans Varied Activities

For the NOS student who feels a need to be involved in a recreational program, the Norse Campus Ministry has many areas where talents could be used.

One of these areas is the service for recrutiement program operated by the University Student Center. Volunteers will be used to help in the recruitment of students on the campus. Volunteers will be needed to answer phones, help with computer work, and provide support in the office.

Another area for volunteer work is the Salem elementary school. Volunteers will work with children who have shown signs of difficulty with math or other subjects. Volunteers will help with the learning of math and other subjects.

International Commence

Orientation for families living in the University Student Center will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 9 at 5:30 p.m. in the Norse Campus Ministry building. The orientation will be held in the Experimental Theatre in the Fine Arts Center. A reception following the orientation will be held in the Norse Campus Ministry.

Home Ec

The College of Home Economics is sponsoring a fashion show to be held on Nov. 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center.

Drafting

American Institute for Drafting and Design is an organization that is preparing for the drafting career.

Electronics

NEO’s Society of Electronic Engineers and Technicians is according to Ken Tupper, a faculty member who is involved with the organization, “a fantastic group of individuals.” The club meets every week to discuss the latest developments in the field of electronics.

Phl Theta

Phi Theta Kappa is a national honor society for two-year college students. The club meets on the first and third Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Student Union.
