Costumes Accent ‘Carnival’ Debut

‘Carnival!’ the drama department’s first musical of the year is slated to open Dec. 8 at 8 p.m. in the auditorium. A ticket to the show will cost $1.00. Proceeds will go to the East A&M library fund.

Carnival is going to give an opportunity for students to ‘dress up in the costumes of some far-eastern lands such as Chinese and Japanese, and of some of the elaborate elephants,’ commented Nichols.

The musical centers around a young girl played by Miss McCord, played by René Beatty, Broken Arrow.

Lift is on a situation which looks hopeless, but then some magical transformation takes place, and she falls in love with the charming young man played by Scott Telford, Tulsa. The love affair between Paul and Leilah is one of the highlights of the performance.

Another amusing character is that of the ‘Chinese Doctor,’ played by George Nichols, who is on his way to the show. He is a character very similar to the Chinese Doctor in the play ‘Cavalcade’ by Graham Greene.

The show will be presented by the drama department, and will feature music and mime by the student body. The show is open to the public and will be held in the auditorium.

Annual Art Show Features Student Classroom Display

A concise display of art and music was served to the student body in the Art Department on March 10. The display was held in the Conservatory of Music and Art, located in the Student Union. The display was open to the public and was free of charge.

The art department included various pieces of artwork created by the students. These pieces were created in various media and included paintings, drawings, and sculptures. The artwork was displayed in the Conservatory of Music and Art, located in the Student Union.

Pre-enrollment Scheduled

Pre-enrollment for the Spring semester at Northeastern A&M will be held Dec. 16.

According to James Rose, director of admissions and registrar, each student should have a pre-enrollment form in the business office. The form will be available from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Only graduating seniors will be allowed to pick up their forms on Monday and Tuesday. Once the forms are completed, all students must return them to the registrar’s office. Students must then return their forms to the registrar’s office.

At the close of the Fall semester, students who have not made a commitment to enroll in the Spring semester may be required to re-enroll in the Spring semester. Students who do not complete the pre-enrollment form will not be allowed to enroll in the Spring semester.

Additionally, the Registrar’s Office will maintain a list of students who have not completed the pre-enrollment form. Students who do not complete the pre-enrollment form will be contacted by the Registrar’s Office and asked to complete the form.

Student Advisement Offered

A new feature of the fall semester is the Student Advisement Center. The center will be located in the Student Union and will be open to all students.

The center will provide students with a wide range of services, including academic advising, financial aid counseling, and career planning. Students will also have the opportunity to meet with faculty members and advisors to discuss their academic and career goals.

The Student Advisement Center is an important part of the Northeastern A&M experience. It is designed to help students make the most of their college experience. The center is open to all students and is free of charge.
Energy Problems Face The Nation

"The security of the country is threatened because of the United States' dependence on imported oil. Right now we are buying 65% of the total amount of oil that is used," stated Gov. David L. Boren at the recent Oklahoma Energy Awareness and Conservation Symposium held in Oklahoma City.

We are definitely headed toward a drastic problem concerning energy conservation. As it stands now, the United States is currently using seven to eight times more energy than it can supply. As you can see we need to resort to different means of energy supplementation.

Coal seems to be the nearest fuel source with which each and every state. If we increase by 4% the amount of coal we used in 1972 we would still have enough limestone (coal) to last at least 92 years," stated Oren Need, Chairman of the Campus Conservation Program.

Governor Boren stated that Oklahoma's main goal is to reduce energy use by 5% to 10%. This would save 150 million dollars a month.

One of the sad things about this problem that the nation is faced with is the fact that Congress has not acted upon it in any way. There are no clear-cut solutions, no gimmicks, and it is a massive problem that affects the economy in other ways it affects every single living being from the white-collared-collar worker to the farmer.

The only way we can attempt to start making progress with this is to change our attitudes about energy. We need to think locally and see that not very far in the future there will be no choice to make. We will simply grab what we can with little thought about ecology, economy, or the lives that may suffer.

Here on campus measures are being taken to cut down on "spending" of our energy source by turning down the heat and lights. The only time they are left on is one at that time, saving on lights and hot water. However, we as students should take into consideration the electricity we use when we leave the area or go T.V. on while visiting for a couple of hours down the hall. It all adds up and every little bit he will help.

Take a look around and evaluate the amount of electricity you use and how much of it is really necessary. Soon we may face a serious problem that we truly have not taken the time to give a second thought.

Teacher Evaluation

Bill Foster

Editors' Note: Opinions expressed in this line are those of the writer.

Norse News student representatives are interviewing professors and student representatives to be used in the evaluation of NREO instructors by students.

Paul Fehrleiser, student senate president, and David Smith, HAL senate representative, are currently involved in composing a student evaluation sheet. The sheet, when completed, will consist of questions designed to determine the overall effectiveness of an instructor's teaching techniques.

In this week’s column, Oren Need, Chairman of the Campus Conservation Program, stated: "If we increase by 4% the amount of coal we used in 1972 we would still have enough limestone (coal) to last at least 92 years." This would save 150 million dollars a month.

You are faced with the problem of determining the overall effectiveness of an instructor's teaching techniques. You may want to consider the following factors:

1. The instructor's ability to explain complex ideas in a clear and concise manner.
2. The instructor's knowledge of the subject matter.
3. The instructor's ability to engage the students and keep them interested.
4. The instructor's availability for office hours and the willingness to help students outside of class.
5. The instructor's ability to handle difficult situations in the classroom.

You may also want to consider the following questions:

- How well does the instructor use examples and analogies to explain concepts?
- How well does the instructor adjust the pace of the lecture to accommodate different learning styles?
- How well does the instructor encourage student participation?
- How well does the instructor use a variety of teaching methods, such as lectures, discussions, and group work?
- How well does the instructor prepare for class and deliver the material effectively?

Dancer Has Proud Heritage

By DON COOKMAN

An evening of dance and music was held at the University with the presentation of a new dance society formed by students.

The dance society was formed to promote interest in dance and to provide a place for students to perform and enjoy dancing.

The evening began with a dance recital, followed by a dance competition. The competition was open to all students, and the winners were awarded prizes.

The evening ended with a dance party, where students were able to relax and enjoy each other's company.

The dance society plans to continue holding events throughout the year, and they are looking for new members to join and share their passion for dance.

George Stabler

George Stabler, a dance instructor, has been teaching dance classes for the past ten years. He has been recognized for his contributions to dance education and has received several awards for his work.

Stabler has been a part of the dance community for many years and has taught at various schools and organizations. He is passionate about dance and believes it is a powerful art form that can bring people together.

The dance society is grateful to have such a talented and dedicated instructor, and they look forward to continuing to learn from him and his passion for dance.

Broncbusters Bull Past Norsemen In Beef Bowl

By Steve Spearing Sports Editor

Before a capacity Broncbuster crowd of over 4,800, the Golden Norsemen suffered a 28-13 defeat to Garden City Community College in the first annual Beef Empire Classic played recently in Garden City, Kan.

When the two teams were invited to meet in the bowl, each owned a seven-game winning streak yet both faced defeat in the season finale. NBC at Dodge City and Garden City at Fort Scott.

Coach Bill Lord's Broncbusters finished regular season action with a 7-3 record while coach Max Cooper's Norsemen wrapped up 7-4 season.

Garden City broke open the scoring in the first quarter with a three yard run by halfback Robert Robinson. Rookie Earl Hafley added the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

New quarterback Billy Viage units fumbled in from two yards out capping a 46 yard scoring in 29 days. Steve Hafley kicked the extra point for a 9-0 lead.

Halfback Terry Garnes hit the Broncbusters on the scoreboard again in the third quarter with a one yard plunge capping a 53 yard drive in 11 plays. Hafley fumbled the ball out for a 27-0 lead.

With 4:22 remaining in the final period, Garden City put the game out of reach for the Norse as quarterback Ron Bienfait connected with tight end Dillingham from 35 yards out for the Broncbuster's final score.

Engel kicked the extra point bringing the totals to 28-0.

NBC finished only one second half score coming late in the fourth quarter with an 11 yard run by quarterback Jimmy Allen. The two points conversion run was short and the 28-13 score held till the final gun.

New halfback Fred Hendrick rushed 20 times for 98 yards which enabled him to be leading ground gainer for NBC during the contest. Viage completed eight of 28 for 154 yards in the passing department.

Americans Visit Inter-Tribal

Recipe for the First Americans sponsored a field trip to the inter-tribal offices to auger into the benefits that are offered to the native Americans.

Some of the benefits that are offered are medical, dental, eye glasses and family planning. These benefits are available to Indians who are one-quarter or more in native blood and can be obtained at the Public Health Services in Wynnewood, Ok. For emergency and surgical cases a Public Health Services Hospital is in Lawrence, Ok.

Play Performed At Festival

Recently "The Son" was presented before judges at the Fourth Annual American College Theater Festival in the Oklahoma Theatre Center, Oklahoma City.

Theater colleges and universities presented plays in the hopes of being recommended to be selected in the festival and then on to the national festival. The purpose of the Festival was to enable the college and university to learn from one another the latest in acting style, stagecraft and costume design.

Another aspect of the Festival is for the colleges and universities to see what others are doing and how they are doing it. Workshops were held to acquaint the students with roles, stagecraft and other related techniques.

Home Ec

"We have been trying to build up our treasury and to do that we have been working on various activities, one of these was the cookout sale to do so," said Carol Barbot, president of the Home Economics Club.

In the planning stages is a tour of New York fashion shops and stores during the spring break for the members who choose to go on the trip. To help the members and the members of the various projects are given points. For one cent of points the member is given one point. This is done to give money for the trip not a lot but a little. It also encourages the club members to get active in the club," stated Barbot.

A Valentine Day dinner and an honor banquet takes the balance of the money earned in fund raising activities.

Christmas cookies are to be sold at all the stores beginning Dec. 9. Also planned is a Christmas party on Dec. 15.
