Supervisor Summarizes Campus Parking Policy

By Crystal Jones

"NEO has installed any changes in parking policy this year," said Joe Haggard, traffic supervisor.

The first day parking tickets were issued was September 1. "Any tickets written prior to Sept. 1 have been disregarded," explained Haggard.

The fine for each violation is $5.00. This will be reduced to $2.00 if paid within 24 hours. Holiday weekends are exempted in the 24 hour limit.

Fines are to be paid at the Business Office from 8:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. on Monday through Friday. Anyone failing to answer to the violation within 48 hours will have the ticket on their mail box.

"The most common violations are absence of a decal, parking within the yellow line, and parking in visitor's parking lot," according to Mr. Haggard.

Visitor parking is behind the Student Union. A person is not fined for expired or expired punch. NEO students will be fined for parking in student parking spots.

"Students have no option to report a parking violation," said Joe Haggard. "The information about the violation is also in the Student Handbook and Calendar of Events.

Senate Provides Student Voice On NEO Campus

"Student senate is primarily to express the voice of the students to the administration," commented Ryan Van, senate President.

The first meeting will be Tuesday, Sept. 13, in room 106 of the student union hall at 6 p.m. Following meetings will be held every Tuesday night.

The senate organizes students to attend the meetings and be active and responsible for their school."

"Smile When

Talent Important
For NEO Swedish
By Jamie Smith

"Smiling, poised, talent and a good attitude are useful tools in becoming a success," according to the NEO swimmers. Practice is the main requirement to become a successful swimmer. The swimmers must practice both as a team and individually.

Cheryl Simmons and Valerie Hare serve as head tutors. Both girls accept the responsibility creating new routines and helping the others with their problem areas.

Cheryl Simmons, Commerce,
Sophomore, has been swimming seven years. Her reason for becoming a swimmer was "to be a leader." At she began swimming there was no other swimming the Commerce High. Simmons has worked for her swimming abilities.

Hare, Grove, Sophomore,
has been swimming five years. She helped the NEO twirling team the past summer.

Julie Whitney, Tulsa, Sophomore, adds another addition. "I started swimming because I wanted to meet new people and make new friends," she explained.

Submitter is represented by Linda O'Nell. She is a sophomore at NEO and she has been swimming for three years.
O'Nell gives herself on receiving awards on her swimming talents.

Mary Ann, a Colonel freshman, had been swimming for three years. Mary Ann is a member of her local drill team. The team attended several events and won several awards.

Denise Winkler is also one of our talented swimmers. Sand Springs is Winkler's home town.
Robert (Loc) Swaney is the supervisor of the girls. He holds off the girls for all needs. "I think they're doing their best. They're trying for all the goals they've set for themselves.
They know they have to work hard.
That's the only way you can become a good swimmer."

Humanities Aids In Self Knowledge

By Paul Clark

We, as humans, are standing on the shoulders of cultural giants that we've wrapped our hands around, and to this point in time, has been the progress of what is unthought. One may ask, "What is Humanities, and how does it apply to me?" Well, Humanities is a form of study which, in part, is the study of the arts. The term "arts" can be traced back from ancient times to the Middle Ages and beyond. Art, and its study, is a reflection of the thoughts and ideas of the time. Although the finished art is not always easy to understand or appreciate, the act of creating it is important. Dr. Nicholas stresses the importance of the student understanding the question which is asked, not the answer. -Photo by Mike Hignite

Carter Pioneers Business Field and Management

By Diane Hannum

"The Campus HAS practically doubled in size since I arrived here. We only had five of the present buildings. The business office consisted of one room on the first floor of Shapley Hall," Carter reminisced.

Today the business office is a large, modernized, section of the library administration building. There are nine full-time and two part-time workers under Mildred Carter's supervision. The office is open weekdays.

Anywhere where money is involved goes through the office. Carter stated. All purchases, financial aids, accounts, invoices, requisitions, contracts, fees, parking tickets, and ticket sales are processed through the business office. The office is also in charge of the employees and student workers' payroll.

DURING ENROLLMENT THE business office gives students their schedule prints and takes the money for tuition, housing, fees, and other services. They also take the parking ticket orders.

Carter often works over time. The responsibilities are endless, but she enjoys her work very much. Carter said. "It is a challenge. I enjoy meeting new students every year and getting acquainted with them."

Two Scrimmages

Norse Win Early Drills

By Chris Fletcher

Sport Editor

"We planned to let the players be on their own to help cut down on the little mistakes like the hamstring, of sides and other mental mistakes," said Northwestern AdM head coach Lee Snider, following last Saturday afternoon's intra-squad scrimmage on Robertson Field.

"Running against a specialized Hutchinson-type defense, the first team marched 71 yards in 12 plays to gain a 14-0 lead with Vining scoring on a four yard dash up the middle. Wilder added the third score of the first period with a two-yard plunge capping a 69-yard drive in 15 plays for the first team offense."

"Your Wide Receivers are still not running disciplined routes. They need a lot more work on just catching the ball even through freshman split end Jim Blake did a good job making catches and advancing the ball," Snider stated.

Vining completed 7 of 14 passes for 63 yards while backup quarterback Matt Harris completed 2 of 4 for 11 yards. Wilder led pass receivers with two catches for 23 yards while Blake was 1 of 2 for 17 yards.

The first team defense stymied the Hutchinson wishbone of the second team offense with the only scoring coming on three field goals by Lindgaard. The second team offense capped a 69 yard drive as Lindgaard kicked a 40 yard field goal. The second field goal covered 53 yards and capped a 57-yard drive. The final field goal was a 35-yarder to end the 3rd quarter.

"WE HAVE REALLY MADE A long way this one week on defense. Our secondary was consistently forcing plays and our tackling was a lot crisper, commented Snider.

On August 7, the Golden Norse traveled to Van Buren, Ark., for a规格-like condition scrimmage and defeated Arkansas Tech 14-13 in five quarters of play.

Student Probe Reveals Voter Apathy Syndrome

Student elections on this campus have reached a point of diminishing returns which has caused interesting questions.

The administration has given the campaign of student elections, especially the freshman and sophomore, a lot of attention this year. In the past, there have been no runoff elections, and we have had a lot of concern about the candidates who have been interested in the offices. The freshmen have had an advantage in two of the positions for the sophomore candidates, and in student government has flickered out. After last year's voting turnout controversy, I thought NTO was ready for a change for the better. It seems that everyone is content holding the heat on an empty bed. This, in itself, is a step backward.

Of course there are many excuses and explanations, but nothing changes the fact that NTO students aren't interested or are simply naive about the campaigns. Director of student activities Dr. Boyd- Converse staged a rally for the current situation. The freshmen class has less to worry about, so naturally they have the time and energy to put into a campaign. However, the sophomore class worries about graduation... I have all my requirements now, and things such as this... This attitude on the part of the sophomores is very selfish... Student interest in class elections seems to have dwindled even to a greater degree. When I asked several people for their favorite candidate, and I thought that one in seven didn't know who the elections were this year (at least, that's what I heard). The speeches that will be held next Wednesday won't even draw much attention from the student body, said Dr. Converse. If the student body isn't going to take time to listen to the candidates, then what is it? I'm sure I think that the eighteen-year-old has the... and don't know what to do with it.

Students have only one designated duty, and that is to raise money for their school and to raise their voice for the homecoming parade in their respective grades, continued Dr. Converse. This is already getting out of proportion. The core of the argument is student officers really all that important? And this statement with the proposal: "Could the classes run themselves through one large class meeting?" which may even tell us ones which could provide the same services," Dr. Converse replied. "I suppose so.

Walker's Wavelength

Sex and violence, sex and violence... All the major groups from the AMA to the PTA are up in arms over the excess we seem to tolerate. What's all the fuss? We still have to hear "Waltz," "Fiddler on the Roof," and the "Children's Film Festival." We'll have to face the fact (you'll have to admit that) that we're making a-conscious decision, John Digger,... we're making a conscious decision. And it shows, like the "Bionic Woman" and "F Brass..." have been renewed. So all of these "sex and violence" fans can breathe a sigh of relief... family hour lives.

I think that sex and violence has been censored in many programming schemes. When Fernh Facebook appears on "Charlies Angels," or the common problem is that sex and violence is... I, on the other hand feel that sex and violence is more than that. It's a part of our lives. We've got to find a balance. How to do that? I'm not sure, but that's what I'm working on. So I get to hear of the first poster, now that's violence! A lot of these, screaming, yelling, young boys made it impossible for anyone over 17 to get on. That's TV's doing to our youngsters these days. Making them become semi-adults before the age of eight. I can't understand any of this. (See here on known as "prime") Whatever happened to all these good shows we used to watch, like the "Baker Knows Best?" My answer to that is simple. Everyone knows that Jim has changed his name to Marcus and wanted practicing medicine. Helen now can be seen doing floor wax commercial, while the kids... grown up (and well adjusted may I add) living in a middle-income suburbia. Billy is about the most radical number in the family. He races monocycles for a living, even though that's what his father promises to him in their weekly phone conversations. "Whatever we do to make sure you're covered per, a word about violence..."

TV has crowned the new era of the kid from "Green Hornet." Have you heard of "Shanty" (too much) "Baretta" (too much) "Kirk" (without bars) An imposing lineup, indeed. The coal-cooper, the little raccoon, and the held eagle with a private eye.

Fate could possibly deal our heroes a blow. The big, bad network censors may rule them too violent and they'll no longer be seen on the tube. If these are to be your personal favorite shows, then there is hope. We are setting up a "HELP OUR HEROES HOTLINE" to be manned by TV watchers. We still need people to man the phones. If you meet our qualifications must have in last 30 minutes" of "sit-time" or be a member of one of their respective fan clubs you can help too. Enact right away, the number to call is TV 540. (Make all pledges payable to me, Don Walker, journalism room Shipley hall.) Let's make TV fun again.

Lastly, for those of you who were wondering, no "STAR WARS" will be shown on TV next fall. Maybe next year. Until then, that's your friendly reporter, signing off.

Reader's Poll

From time to time the editorial page will run a reader's poll to get as many different points of view as possible. For a column, I ask that you write the poll, answer it, return it to the newsmen. There will be a half-pop on the editorial page for your responses. No names will be needed on any of the ballots, since this poll is intended only to stimulate the attitudes and opinions which are constantly changing on this campus. For it to be successful, a large response is prerequisite. When a poll appears on this page, promptly answer it and be counted for your point of view. Any state should fail to meet this responsibility they face cutsbacks in federal funds. There is all left is the interest of every state. This is the time that we all like to how you feel.

1. Do you obey the fifty-five mile per hour speed limit? YES \ NO

"Bible Belt in Black and White"

Bible Belt, vrouwen, vrouwen, vrouwen...

Bible Belt is a fascinating, funny, intriguing, exciting, and unusual new television show. It's about the relationship between a middle-aged Jewish rabbi and a young, beautiful, modern, and unconventional yoga instructor. The rabbi is named Rabbi Shlomo Zuckerman, and the yoga instructor is named Yael. They live in a beautiful apartment in New York City and spend all their time together doing yoga, meditating, and exploring the meaning of life.

The show is set in a small apartment complex and features a variety of other characters, including a young woman named Sarah who is a writer and a Holocaust survivor, and a retired police officer named Mr. Kaplan who is the building's superintendent.

"Bible Belt in Black and White" is a show that explores the intersection of religion and modernity, and the ways in which these two worlds can coexist and thrive together. It's a show that is both funny and thought-provoking, and it's sure to delight fans of both Judaism and yoga.
