School Nurse Provides Top Med Services

Medical services are offered here at NED free of charge to any student on campus.

The name is available for cuts, bruises, and other minor injuries. Flu and allergy shots are also administered as well as asper and immunizations.

As far as an emergency goes, splints and crutches are also available for student use.

The nurse's station is located in Doheny Hall, first floor by the front desk. Facilities are open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Officers Express Hopes

President John Stapleton, Tulane, has been elected to another term as president. The main thing I want to see is for the students to be more participative," said Stapleton. "I would like to get the students involved.

ONE WAY JOHN intends to do this is to get a hand job.

The main thing I want to see is for the students to participate more in school activities and plan things around their interests."

Meistersingers Announced

By Tami Oler

Meistersingers auditions were held Sept. 3, under the direction of Clark Dunker, Meistersinger conductor.

Fifteen singers were selected. The selections were in four different categories: soprano, alto, bass, and tenor. Soprano choices were James Hagen, Thaddeus Dvorak, Gustave, and John Sommers. Tenors included: Robert Hartman, Thomas, and John Drummond, and Anthony Williams, and James O'Brien.

SELECTED TO PLAY keyboard were Matty, Burlington, and Bruce, trumpets; James, tenor; and Bob, bass. The guitar player will be Jim Bob Edmundson, and the keyboard player will be with the Public Broadcasting System.

Incoming Meistersingers will have a busy schedule ahead of them during the academic year. They will be seen on Parents' Day, Sept. 23.

European Tour In Planning

A European Study Tour Program will be offered to interested students at NED. The tour is scheduled for June, and will last three weeks.

The tour will include visits to Rome, Florence, Paris, and London. Approximately five days will be spent in each city with possible side trips.

A student may be able to have three hours credit in humanities.

The stage is included in which more information about the students will be available in the future.

The last stop is the last appearance in which the student will be available to the students.

Student Senate Holds First Caucus

The student senate kicked off its first session, Tuesday, Sept. 4 in Cunningham little theatre.

The first step in the session was to discuss a number of issues that will become important to the student body. These issues include the following:

1. A student may be able to have three hours credit in humanities.
2. The stage is included in which more information about the students will be available in the future.
3. The last stop is the last appearance in which the student will be available to the students.

The whole idea is to get students involved in their campus during the weekends and get involved.

This student senate is planning to put on a series of events throughout the year. Some of these events will be held on campus.

The first event is scheduled to take place on campus.

First Caucus

Affairs, stated that all clubs that want to be members of the student senate must hold a meeting to discuss the club's sponsor and officers. The sponsor should be a member of the student senate as soon as possible.

Converse added that Friday, the movie "Dr. Zhivago" will be shown in the Student Union ballroom. Converse urges all students to participate in the student activities.

Rape Seminar Explores Crime

By Tammie Clary
Feature Editor

Rape is a crime nobody wants to talk about, because it's dirty and nasty, but it's occurring everywhere.

Because of these reasons Local Maning, director of the criminal justice department, held a Rape Victims Seminar. The seminar was held Thursday in Cunningham Hall. Main points discussed were the actual crime of rape, the victim and the offender.

"RAPE IS DEFINED, by law, as the act of sexual intercourse accomplished with a female under any one of these eight categories: if the female is under 16 years of age; she is over 16 and under 18 and is a previous victim and unchaste among moral people; she is incapable, either by illness or insensibility of mind, to give legal consent; or as resistance is overcome by force or violence; where she is present and consents and the woman is under the influence that the individual is her husband; if she is present and consents and the woman is under the influence that the individual is her husband.

Beyond the common denominator of determination, there seems to be little, if any, characteristics that rape victims have. Many a young woman are living alone, are working at odd hours, are generally unattractive, accounts that victims experience. But not all victims are of a certain race, occupation, family background or even the same age bracket.

The rapist is varied as his victim. He has been described as a person of importance or over-sexed, mentally incompetent or fundamentally artificial. Psychologists have tried to analyze the motives these men have, and they range from rage and frustration over a meaningful experience to sexual status to improper role playing to poor self image to hatred of women and finally, to male superiority.

their victims? Relationships between the rapist and victim fall into seven different categories. The first is when the offender is a "General stranger" to the victim, and they do not know each other, but only recognize each other by visual contact.

The second is if the two are generally acquainted, that is, if the offender became known to the victim just before the offense or if she had some prior knowledge about her existence, place of work, or name, but no specific relationship existed between them.

The fourth is if the rapist is a close neighbor and the victim has crossed paths many times.

The fifth is where the attacker does or has previously had a close relationship with the victim.

The sixth is when the attacker is a close friend of the family, has been in the house and was trusted by the victim.

Although no definite theory on rapists has been developed, there are three similarities that they share. The statistics show that most rapists are between the ages of 17 and 24, and that most of their victims are usually five to ten years younger than they are. Until very recently most rapists were not interracial, but with the growing number of interracial marriages there seems to be a substantial increase in the number of interracial rapes, especially those in which a white victim is attacked by a black man.

Criminal studies and surveys of selected groups of offenders show that most often rapists are bound to be the lower end of the occupational scale. Level of employment, skills, nature of job, or social economic status prove that most rapists have been socially underprivileged in education, occupation and social status.

Toni Bayro, an ex-police officer at Topco, who now is the head of the Police Science Program in Lee County spoke at the seminar.

Lifesaving Course Offered

By Ruby Bournet
Feature Editor

Because swimming has been a major summer pastime for decades, NEO offers a course in lifesaving.

The program has been a part of the curriculum for seven years, under the direction of Mrs. Carol Calzago, who is also a physical education instructor, and coach of the girl's varsity basketball team.

LIFESAVING, WHICH is designed to develop swimming skills, and to help persons better protect themselves in emergency situations in the water, is a lifesaving course, although a certificate or advanced lifesaving is required for most lifesaving jobs.

To qualify for the course, which is offered both semesters, a person must be able to swim 500 yards continuously, using any stroke of front, back, and side strokes, dive to a depth of eight feet, swim underwater 50 feet, tread water for one minute, and also stand onii from dive.

The course includes personal safety, defenses, releasing and escape techniques, when in contact with another person, search and recovery, and basic small craft safety.

Morality Problem In Co-ed Dorms
Coed dorms are becoming more and more visible in our society. The first Coed Dorm was instituted in the late 1960s at Stanford University. A lot of fury was expected from the parents of the students involved, surprisingly not one parent responded. Is that the response that you would have imagined about a decade ago? This is 1978 what do people of today think of co-ed dorms—or do they think anything of them?

There is basically three different kinds of co-ed dorms: girls and boys living on the same dorm floor, on alternate floors in the same building, and in separate wings on the same building. Another alternative is semi-co-ed.

WE LIVE IN A co-ed world, people of opposite sex are not banned from each other in society, so why ban young adults in college from the opposite sex? The truth probably is that the majority of people opposing to the co-ed idea are college students that have had to experience living in co-ed dorms or by other college students that prefer single-sexed dorms.

Have you ever thought of the disadvantages of co-ed dorms? For instance, embarrassing situations you can run up against when there are two different sexes roaming the halls; especially when you are coming out of the showers and you run into a group of the -opposite sex. If a person is very self-conscious, situations such as this one could be a great problem of living in co-ed dorms.

ONE SLAM AGAINST co-ed dorms primarily created in the older adult world is the simple fact that co-ed dorms down-grade our society's morals. Of course this has been true in most of the rapid changes in our history. All new changes take time to accept.

Young, optimistic, secure minds can probably think of many advantages that co-ed dorms provide. Co-ed dorms can help develop more of an informal relationship between boys and girls.

Living in co-ed dorms can serve as a good experience by living in the same building with the opposite sex and learning some of their habits might help prepare you for the married life.

PEOPLE OF TODAY'S society want a variety of things in their life. Is co-ed dorms a part of this trend for variety? We think that the people that do not approve of co-ed dorms will learn to accept the new trend part of life just like they have had to do in the past with the rapid, and extravagant changes and trends of life. For those people that have already accepted co-ed dorms as a part of life—be careful and don't abuse it.
