Horticulture Club Presents Exhibit

The NEO horticulture department will present an open house Sunday, Dec. 9 at 1 p.m. in the campus greenhouse. According to Don Johnson, Director of Horticulture, currently 16 horticulture students will exhibit an array of flowers, plants, and green plants. The open house is to be attended by the public.

Not only will there be plants in full bloom shown, but also many other types of green plants. NEO greenhouse green house plants consist of cucumbers, cherry tomatoes, and other small commercial vegetables.

In addition to common plants there are a few varieties of tropical Hawaiian foliage along with house and potted plants.

We expect a full house since it is a Sunday when there is not much to do. We anticipate around 500 people coming but sometimes it just doesn’t happen. We can have maybe a 1,000 people showing up, said Johnson.

Spring Senate Elections Lack Student Interest

"A whole new slate of officers, except the President, is running for student senate," said Dr. Boyd Converse, student senate advisor.

The student senate elections for spring semester offices will be held on Dec. 12 at 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. There will be only two offices open and four candidates to fill them.

Running for president will be Herb Ross, junior in Musicology; Ward Quarles, sophomore in Musicology; Dale Thompson, junior in Musicology; and Dave Sailor, senior in Musicology.

Running for vice president will be Martin Rice, junior in Musicology; Delores Bell, junior in Musicology; and Sandy White, junior in Musicology.

If you are interested in running, please contact either of the advisors, Dr. Boyd Converse or Dr. W. W. O’Brian.

Concerned Over Equality

By Debbie Schornick

"I feel that in a country as highly advanced as America, both technologically and socially, it is indeed a shame that such a tremendous gap still exists between the equality for the women," stated Sarah Gossett, during a recent speech.

Gossett is the youngest member named to Governor Nigh’s commission on Women. She is a 20-year-old freshman at the University of Oklahoma and is a graduate of McAlister high school. She is the daughter of Danny D. Gossett of Commerce City, a state senator, and Margaret Miller from Collegeville.

The second round of the election is for senators-at-large. Sammy Keys, Gushing Freshman; Joe Little, Duncan Freshman; and Steve Nash, Vinita sophomore will be the opposition.

Television Class Strives To Motivate Imagination

By Ruby Carlin

NEO’s course in television production class is set to become a part of the school’s curriculum this semester. The class is designed to assist students in obtaining all the skills necessary to work with television equipment, and becomes familiar with the workings of television production. Equipment including microphones, cameras, lighting equipment, sound effects devices, television cameras, video tape recorders, stage props and other related studio equipment are used.

Prolific Holiday Gifts Perfect for Students

By Jean York

It is a fairly well known fact that most college kids can’t afford to buy Christmas gifts. Their financial resources have been dried up for the business office, for laundry, and for other expenses that are necessary to a college student’s life. But if a person really would like to give a gift there isn’t much stopping them. Just use your imagination and be creative.

The First Thing you can do is make a journey to your nearby library and start browsing through the holiday catalogs. Several of the December issues publish ideas for Christmas gifts. You can make Christmas cookies. This year, instead of Santa, Class, angels and Christmas balls, you can always whip up something with people. If you can cook very well you may be able to find many recipes that will be just your cup of tea. There are many sugar cookies you can make to spend hours. Another great idea is making Christmas cards. They can be used to test out first grade effort either if you put a lot of thought and energy into it you may just come up with a masterpiece.

If you choose to write, create a Christmas story and print or on a piece of cardboard that has been wrapped in a white color wrapping paper. Maybe you can buy Christmas stickers to place around your story. This makes a great gift for just kids who like to read Christmas stories.

For a really good friend buy a bag of balloons, blow them up, and toss them into their room. You can use a message on the balloons. Write a poem on a balloon or two. You can also make little drawings on them. If you have pretty perfume bottles you can tie ribbons around them and place flowers in them. Pretty International Week ended with a dance in the hallway Nov. 30. Awards were given at this time to: Susan, Deborah, Lois, Jonathan, for chess and soccer teams; Terry Robinson, Wyssendore, Sophomore, for chess; and Patrick Sturdevan, Tilden, freshman for background.

Organization Plans Trips

“Oklahoma’s Friendship Force will be taking application from Monday, December 10, at 7 p.m. in the basement of the Miami Savings and Loan building. “This is for students interested in promoting Oklahoma friendship through the National Organization for Civics Education,” stated Cindy Goss, Miami sophomore. But you must be an Oklahoma between the ages of five and 85. You may be chosen as Oklahoma’s next ambassador to the Friendship Force. There is a ten dollar yearly membership fee for those joining the Friendship Force.”

The Friendship Force is an exchange program which started years ago at the National Civic Education Conference, by President and Mrs. Carter. It’s purpose is to promote international friendship and good will and to provide Americans with an opportunity to experience Gogden. The Friendship Force works as an exchange program. An equal number of people from pictures that are cut out from magazines on paper or card stock. Let your imagination run wild and be sure to keep your name in mind. You are planning to give the gift to a person. If you decide to cut out pictures of scenery. Ask the person to select one you cut out pictures of scenery. Ask the person to select one you like and write a sentence over it. It will probably include your name and your letter. The friendship force has come to the United States and are treated with an equal and special person.

Some people to remember birthdays, love, originality and sweet words will make an interesting gift. As the old saying goes, it is the thought that counts.

Robert Kliment and Bob Scott are both teaching sections in television production this semester. Next year Kliment will take the production class, and Scott will teach the news and information class, and the work will be done on the same. The equipment they have had the opportunity to help him.

“Although there is theory, there is a lot of hands-on work to be done before the student ever gets to use the equipment,” he added.

“The students have to be in the right direction. Most of them have never been required to generate their own ideas, but in this situation they have to be,” explained Kliment.

“Students usually go through the stage of copying things from television shows, commercials, rather than being really innovative. To do this work in copying a 30 second show, they can’t get used to the work involved in using many more minutes more than they thought.”

Although the classes this semester are introductory, there is a provision for those students who have an attitude greater than his or her class-

Mother Relates Family Routine Changes

By Betty Carroll

The following is a story of how mother and children handle the school routine each morning. It is a humorous account of the things that go wrong and the mishaps that happen during the process. The children all have special jobs to do, and each one is responsible for making sure that their tasks are completed. The mother finds that by involving the children in the routine, she is able to keep things running smoothly and everyone is satisfied with the outcome.

Light Adjustment

By Dana Eversole

As the school season nears the problem of excessive drinking becomes more of a concern. Drinking can become an excuse for many people to feel that they don't have a problem. Where does social drinking end and problem drinking begin? If a person needs a drink to be social, then that's social drinking. However, if the person needs a drink to feel better, that's problem drinking. Excess drinking is not considered a drug, but it can negatively affect your life and the lives of those around you. Most people who drink responsibly without harming themselves or others.

Alcohol is a depressant that works on the central nervous system. A little works as a mild tranquilizer. Higher levels of alcohol in the brain can depress the brain activity, reduce inhibitions and self-control. Drunk driving is a leading cause of death and injury in the United States.

Excess Drinking Poses Problems

By Dana Eversole

The alcoholic protects his consciousness from the pain of accurate recall by three methods. First, there is the chemically induced blackout. A black-out is a complete loss of memory for a period of time, while functioning in another normal fashion. Persons with alcoholism who have had one of these blackouts perceive him as being normal, and usually assume he is in complete control of his faculties. Later, the victim is unable to recall anything about the blackout period and never will be. Work and personal problems continue.

Second, there is the psychologically induced blackout. A black out is a complete loss of memory for a period of time, while functioning in another normal fashion. Persons with alcoholism who have had one of these blackouts perceive him as being normal, and usually assume he is in complete control of his faculties. Later, the victim is unable to recall anything about the blackout period and never will be. Work and personal problems continue.

Christmas Joys
Lesson Tensions

So many things are wrong with the world today—high rate of unemployment, skyrocketing inflation and the energy crisis are just a few of them. The value of the dollar is crumbling, the cost of living is rising, and sometimes it seems like everyone is broke. Organized crime in the cities is rampant, and it is even in the smaller cities by now. Lots of people are yelling about reverse discrimination, sex discrimination, discrimination, discrimination. You name it and somebody's probably yelled about it. Some women are screaming about equal rights and that women should be equal to men in all aspects, and in the same breath they don't want to be dragged off to fight a war, and they want to be treated like a "highly valued woman." Proposition 13 made its way through the U.S. and made some people a little bit upset. Capital punishment has its pros and cons and is the subject of many heated debates. If someone mentions capital punishment, there's likely to be someone there to oppose and defend the measure. Arms control also has its pros and cons. People who like the idea state a case that it would be safer if all arms were limited, and those against it think the U.S. should have the MOST weapons and the BEST military defense in the world, and in order to attain this all control should be lifted. Abortion has always been a big issue, and there's almost as many people for it as there are against it. Cancer is a word that is taboo to a lot of people. No one even wants to hear the word. Yet many people get this disease each year. The government tells us something new each day that gives us cancer. It almost makes people afraid to eat anything or even go outside and breathe the air. Granted, there are a lot of things wrong with the world today, but isn't it really nice that at one time in the year everyone can put that behind them and enjoy a time of love and sharing and giving of themselves. Somehow Christmas makes the rest of the year a little easier to cope with, and all the things that got you down the whole year are lessoned in intensity, at least for awhile anyway. This Christmas don't forget to share all of that love with someone who might be alone. It could make the difference between a sad time and a very merry Christmas!

Q. How many students are in the International Club and from which countries did they come? A. It is hard to say just how many, but I estimate there is an average of 30 members. There are students from many different countries involved in the club. They come from Micronesia, South America, Central America, Nigeria, Kenya, South Korea, India, Ireland, Saudi Arabia, Afghanistan, and the U.S.

A. As a foreign student on campus, what advice do you have for other students? A. Although it may sometimes seem difficult, it is important to adjust to a new country and learn the language. It is also important to make friends with other students.

THAT'S ENTERTAINMENT

By Rich Behling
Associate Editor

Before I say anything else in this column, I would like to say this. I'm sorry for ignoring a major part of the music scene. The song I'm referring to is one commonly known as country and western music. The album I'm going to try to really talk about is the song from a Hank Williams Jr. album called BENT AND HELL BOUND. When the song was written, it may not include this singer in their list of country singers. I think that this song is one of the best Hank Williams Jr. has ever written.

Hank Williams Jr. was born in Shreveport, Louisiana. His father, Hank Williams Sr., was a famous country music singer. Williams Jr. is considered one of the greatest country music singers of all time.

Williams' career began in the early 1960s as a member of his father's band, the Williamses. He later formed his own band, the Highwaymen, which consisted of Waylon Jennings, Willie Nelson, and Kris Kristofferson. In 1994, Williams released his album BENT AND HELL BOUND, which included the song that became his most famous. The song is about a man who has lost everything and is now living on the streets. The lyrics are a powerful statement about the struggles of the working class.

The song was a huge hit, reaching number one on the country charts and staying there for several weeks. It was also a Top 10 hit on the pop charts. The song's popularity helped Williams' career take off, and he went on to release several more albums in the following years.

Hank Williams Jr.'s music continues to be enjoyed by fans around the world. His songs are known for their powerful messages and his ability to connect with listeners on a personal level.

Let me stress that "entertainment" is not just for both American and foreign students. Americans can start thinking of themselves as international students. Preparation Imperative For Exams

Instead of putting it off until tomorrow, it's best to sit down today and make a study plan. Semester finals are very close at hand even if you don't want to believe it. It's just this Christmas, it's easy to find something else to do, like shopping for presents and going to parties. But, by the time semester finals come, you'll understand the difference between making a decent grade and the point average.

A lot of people will put off studying until the very last minute, but by then it's too late to remember. Let alone study. The best time to start studying is now. It's not really that hard to do for, example, in those moments when you're bored and are sitting around doing nothing, you could pick up a book and read that chapter in English to the extent you never got around to doing.

Don't lock your lids over those history notes or finish those algebra problems. Don't try to do all of it in one sitting, you've got half an hour or an hour or so at dinner and in the dorm room. You'll make that homework seem to be a breeze if you let me do your work for you.

This semester, don't let those final exams scare you to death, surprise yourself and teachers by doing those tests!
