Regents let building bids

By Ellicott Stullman
Managing Editor

Initial plans for the new nursing building were recently submitted to the A&M Board of Regents, but the construction date has not been announced.

The building fund has raised $50,000 in pledges and $40,000 of the $60,000 target amount has been contributed.

Amanda Hopper, owner of the video machines, is upset about the machines that were taken in the robbery last week. Approximately $500 was stolen from the machines.

Eight coin-operated electronic game machines were broken into and two others damaged at Center Student Union sometime after midnight Sunday, according to Patrolman Jim Stoudt.

Orman said a report of an attempt to enter the building was received by locking the front doors.

Between $400 to $500 in change was taken from the machines, according to the eight of the machines, he said. Attempts to burglarize two others resulted in the machines being damaged. An investigation is continuing.

March of Dimes sponsors telethon

By Trudy Knecht

March of Dimes will be sponsoring a telethon on Nov. 10, 7 p.m. at the Student Union. The telethon will be held in the administration building.

Conducted by Sonja Panco, Bartlettville and Greene County Youth Council member, the telethon will run with the help of several other student volunteers who will be calling, getting pledges, and selling advertisements.

We are soliciting community members who have pertinent experiences or positions that they wish to donate. A lot of people are interested in the cause. We are working with the Oklahoma Student Union and the Student Union Coordinator.

Contestant choice verified

Contestant selection as the "Miss" Monde for the upcoming All-Big 12 beauty contest was recently announced.

Bobbi Wright, president

Not only will the new nursing building be for nursing and medical laboratories, but the offices will also be offered. Skills labs, faculty offices, computer rooms, music labs, and student lounge will complete the building.

"Hopefully, this facility will give us more space for the students and allow us to add more curriculum," said Bobbi Wright. "The building is being designed to be able to accommodate the future needs of our students."

March of Dimes telethon

"Our fun is to make the community aware of the problem caused by birth defects and to raise funds for medical and educational programs. Panco said.

"We need to help people to see what the March of Dimes is all about."

The performance was organized and hosted by Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is well known for his contributions to the field of politics.

"April was a fun day for us. We sold over 100 tickets and had a great turnout."

"All we need to do is send it to the March of Dimes.

Contestant selection was confirmed by the Architectural Services for Oklahoma News Online.
Netherton strives for goal

"Producing a nurse who is competitive, self-sufficient, and caring is my highest goal when I come to teaching," stated Paula Netherton, new nursing instructor.

"Nursing skills are taught by a combination of lecture and practice, laboratory situations, and real-life situations," Netherton said.

To that end, Netherton has developed a unique approach to education. She has designed a course that allows students to gain experience in a variety of settings. This approach is based on the belief that learning is more effective when it is applied in real-life situations.

The course includes clinical instruction not only in the hospital, but also in a variety of community settings. This approach allows students to gain experience in a variety of settings, and to see the practical applications of their learning.

Netherton has also worked to improve the infrastructure of the school. She has worked with local hospitals to ensure that students receive the best possible education.

"I am very proud of the work that has been done," Netherton said.

"In the 1974-75 school year, junior and senior grade students at the college were charged the full tuition of $3,400. This amount was broken down into $2,000 for tuition and $1,400 for room and board," Netherton explained.

During the 1975-76 school year, the college budget was $1,400,000. This amount was broken down into $750,000 for tuition and $650,000 for room and board.

The difference in tuition was due to the fact that the college had received a grant from the state to reduce the cost of education.

During this year, the art department held 10 art exhibits, featuring various artists.

Tuition this year was $775 per credit hour. This amount was $2 per credit hour. Since there are ten credits per semester, this means that a student would pay $775 per semester.

Problem solving, leadership, and challenging questions are the main factors in the teaching method used by new mathematics instructor, Alan Aldridge.

Aldridge, who holds a bachelor's degree in mathematics, is teaching at Garden City High School.

Aldridge is a graduate of Eastern State University, where he received his bachelor's degree. He then taught at the University of Alabama, where he received his master's degree.

Aldridge said that he enjoys teaching and that he is looking forward to the challenge of the new class.

"I am very excited about this new opportunity," Aldridge said.

During his time at the University of Alabama, Aldridge taught courses in calculus and linear algebra.

"I am very interested in the field of mathematics," Aldridge said.

"I am also a native of Oklahoma, and I am glad to be working with people from Oklahoma," Aldridge said.

"I am looking forward to working with my students," Aldridge said.

Officers note FCA benefits

By Geneva Mousick

"FCA ministers to athletes and unties them by sharing the love of Christ through sports," states Claire Seal, sophomore from Broken Arrow who helped establish Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

The club meets in the gym every Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. The meetings are casual and held in a relaxed setting with pizza and soda. The main focus is on sharing faith and providing support to athletes in their spiritual journey.

"FCA is a great opportunity to make new friends and share our faith with others," says Seal.

IN THE HUDDLE

Perry Brooks, Blankard sophomore, was named the Most Valuable Player at the Stars and Stripes Classic on June 15th. Brooks was a key player in the game, scoring the deciding goal in the final minutes of the match. He is looking forward to a future in professional soccer.

Club unites all nationalities

By Tricia Rich

Trying to bridge the cultural divide, the FCA club meets weekly to pray for each other and share their personal stories. The club is open to all faiths and backgrounds.

Recently, the club hosted a retreat for students from different countries. The retreat included games, crafts, and discussions about their cultures. The goal was to create a friendly environment where students could share their experiences and learn from each other.

ROCK & ROLL

Men at Work

The band look like a band that has been their live single and album on Top Ten in six weeks. Their hard, shaved suits and shaved ties make the audience in Australia look more like readers than listeners.

True to their name, Men at Work singer Colin Hay, sax player Greg Ham, guitarist Ron Strykert, bassist John Bowers and drummer Jerry Spencer have been working hard to become Australia's rock star status.

Formed in 1979, the Melbourne band hand out a ghastly eight-month apprenticeship on Australia's music pub and dance scene. At one point, they read themselves only ten dollars a week, for a fiver in drinks at the committee.

But times have changed, they are now the end of a three-month North American concert tour that began with a special guest slot with Fleetwood Mac.

The reason for the sudden success is clear. Men at Work's album, Business as Usual, and single, "Who Can It Be Now?". The new album has dominated airplay and sales charts in Europe, the U.S. and Canada, as well as Australia, where the album has gone quadruple platinum, which in Australia, doubles at 50,000 copies.

Orangre in record. Men at Work spark their own personal enthusiasm with a hard, commercial charm. The songs are geared to hard and soft, which warming books as the Jetstar Casino show playing at "Town Under." A cut from their debut LP.

It was taken that turned the trick of course, but luck also helped in Ham, a former school-teacher, is the line to point out. "The were around the right time for Australian music," he says. "If we were around six or seven years ago, we might never have had a hit in Mel- bourne."

For all the other bands still breaking the pub circuit, back home, Men at Work have proved that the great Australian rock dream can still come true.

Nuclear weapons

What does a "freeze" accomplish?

Now that they have their public expression of sentiment in favor of a nuclear weapons freeze, exactly what have its proponents accomplished?

In eight out of the nine states where some form of a freeze proposal was on the ballot, and in a number of cities, voters registered their approval. The only state to defeat it was Arizona.

Judging by the tone of the pre-election campaign in behalf of the various state and local referendums, many people thought they were voting "against" nuclear war. However, the issue was much more complicated than that.

The wording varies but the proposals generally called for immediate negotiations toward a verifiable freeze in the production, testing and deployment of nuclear weapons and the missiles, bombers and submarines capable of launching them.

The word "freeze" is "verifiable." and none of the proponents indicated that they had the least idea how one would go about verifying that the other side does not have someone engaged in all the designing and engineering procedures that go into the production of nuclear weapons.

It should be obvious that the Soviets for anyone else wouldn't show much cooperation in allowing for a on-site inspection of their facilities, and they probably won't be letting up on their free runs of their factories either, much less their drafting and designing room.

Anyway, the proponents of this proposal have yet to produce any evidence that anyone in our government wants to start a nuclear war either, but it seems that the best way to prevent one is to make sure the United States is not locked into proposals that would mean military inferiority, nuclear or non-nuclear.
