24th annual Science Fair hosted
by Pike Tha Keps

Science Fair hosted by Pike Tha Keps, honor society, held Feb. 23, in the student union ballroom.

Initiates announced

Pike Tha Keps honor society held its annual Science Fair, March 17, for junior and senior high school students. The society’s first meeting was held in 1984.

Tuition and housing rates increase in fall

Tuition fees will be increased for the fall semester, to $1,250 per semester.

Rhett Virtue

Collage

Movie presentation slated

John Travolta stars in a science-fiction movie, "Collage," which includes computer-generated images of New York City.

OAGIC meeting scheduled

The 1986 OAGIC meeting will be held in May in Miami, Dade Community College. The meeting will feature presentations from various institutions, including Miami Dade Community College.

Cultural and community events, special interest meetings, and general sessions are the scheduled activities.

In the past, the conference has provided a forum for presentation of the meetings, however, because of recent budget cuts the conference may not take place. Facilities wishing to present a conference may be required to make arrangements for transportation and lodging.
Commentary

Ignorance prompts novel responses

Due to the evident ignorance of the Northeastern A&M College population about general rules and regulations of the visitation program, there have been some campus rooms which could have been avoided, and a good system of communications been absent.

The situation concerned two students on campus, guilty of neglecting the regulations of the college, who were to be expelled. College president, Dr. Bobby R. Wright, himself made a commentary about the problem by overtaking the hearing committee's decisions. Realizing the problem he, admittedly, stretched the rules. In the long run, however, this may serve as a step towards awakening about the problem.

Although the exact terms of every policy of the campus are available to any student in the college calendar/student handbook, there are probably few who take the time to read the entire thing. At a late point, there is a load, general cry from the students who plead "I didn't know!"

This is undoubtedly the truth. But the lack of communication between administrators and students is obviously not completely effective, or problems such as the ones that came before the hearing committee would never be present to make such a sad commentary.

The problem cannot be pinned down on any one aspect of the communications process. There are those who are guilty of not learning, as well as those who fail to make the message easily understood. Somewhere along the line, there is interference, something which distracts, obstructs, or tones down the message.

Confidentially Yours

The first of two foreign films reviewed this week, Confidentially Yours is a well-rounded mystery in which director Francois Truffaut shows black and white to seemingly pay homage to Alfred Hitchcock.

When one can avoid sticking at the hideously awful English subtitles in this French import, there are several delightfully Hitchcockian touches present from scene to scene.

In the film, young, idealistic lawyer Claude Lelouch is forced into a righting-compass situation when his fiancée and wealthy but detached wife are murdered by a man she had fallen in love with only a few short hours of one another.

Taking into consideration that the husband and wife were lovers, there is only one man in the murder, who, saving the taste of the movie, is the most likely of us, shall not be named either.

Truffaut's direction is aware of this, but, in the interest of entertainment, is willing to overlook it to save her honor. However, several bodies turn up, a morbid inspection is assigned to the case and the film brings in several nice touches of black comedy. Interesting new aspects surface apace, and the main sequence and forgettable scenes of intrigue which are a common result of the film, is worth watching for.

El Norte

The beginning of this engaging movie starts with the tale of a Guatemalan couple who have been forced by a government that wishes to take their land and install a U.S. cotton plantation.

The film is a courageous attempt to reflect "El Norte" - the United States. Doing so requires a difficult journey, culminating in an abandoned desert, through which they must travel to California.

The American dream is shown to be a thing which is always around the horizon. One is named over to the immigration authorities, a dream which is not a reality. It is a journey of death and destruction, a result of unrighteousness and the pursuit of greed.

This Mexican film, with its somber picture of a realistic message about the American Dream, is the border of its domain.

Pandora's Log

Unfortunately, there are dozens of females like her running loose. She's the kind of girl who wants to take the initiative. She's not a girl you can sit around with, she's too direct, too independent, too much energy. She's a good girl, a really good girl.

She's not the kind of girl who wants to be in a movie, she's too real, too direct, too independent. She's a good girl, a really good girl.

She's not the kind of girl who wants to be in a movie, she's too real, too direct, too independent. She's a good girl, a really good girl.

She's not the kind of girl who wants to be in a movie, she's too real, too direct, too independent. She's a good girl, a really good girl.

She's not the kind of girl who wants to be in a movie, she's too real, too direct, too independent. She's a good girl, a really good girl.

She's not the kind of girl who wants to be in a movie, she's too real, too direct, too independent. She's a good girl, a really good girl.

She's not the kind of girl who wants to be in a movie, she's too real, too direct, too independent. She's a good girl, a really good girl.

She's not the kind of girl who wants to be in a movie, she's too real, too direct, too independent. She's a good girl, a really good girl.

She's not the kind of girl who wants to be in a movie, she's too real, too direct, too independent. She's a good girl, a really good girl.

She's not the kind of girl who wants to be in a movie, she's too real, too direct, too independent. She's a good girl, a really good girl.

She's not the kind of girl who wants to be in a movie, she's too real, too direct, too independent. She's a good girl, a really good girl.

She's not the kind of girl who wants to be in a movie, she's too real, too direct, too independent. She's a good girl, a really good girl.

She's not the kind of girl who wants to be in a movie, she's too real, too direct, too independent. She's a good girl, a really good girl.

She's not the kind of girl who wants to be in a movie, she's too real, too direct, too independent. She's a good girl, a really good girl.

She's not the kind of girl who wants to be in a movie, she's too real, too direct, too independent. She's a good girl, a really good girl.

She's not the kind of girl who wants to be in a movie, she's too real, too direct, too independent. She's a good girl, a really good girl.
Linder was first motivated for his major from his home economics instructor Debra Jenkins during his junior year in high school. Linder is a graduate of Joy High School. "I became interested in this field through class home economists and the opportunity to work and satisfy the need for home industry," he said.

"In real management, a person is responsible for the total restaurant operation. This includes being in charge of the kitchen, ordering supplies and working closely with the chef," Linder said.

He first learned to cook when his mother became ill. His father, Ronald, now teaches how to cook. "I have many functions here," he said. "I have had a great deal of experience in the area."

Not only does home economics help Linder in his career choice, it also helps him with his personal needs. "I have learned to cook and clean, and I have also learned to prepare food," he said.

SPOKESMAN
Crop top sportswear, Ted Watts, is the guest speaker at the Phi Thita Kappa initiation Feb. 21. Watts is an alumnus of the University of Oklahoma and an attorney.

Driving begins daily pace for freshman
Driving to and from school is an everyday event for Delilah Reed, Alon freshman.

"Driving isn’t really a problem, getting myself up on time,“ said Reed, who is a business major.

"I am not always here, but I am always there," she said.

Driving does not interfere with Reed being active in the activities on campus.

"I can still be involved in activities on campus if I want to," said Reed. "I go to the dances, plays, football and basketball games."

Besides being a college student, Reed is a wife and mother. Sometimes going to college can be difficult, especially when Reed has a child in her last term. "I don’t have to worry about what my parents want me to do," she said. "I just have to worry about my own wants."

"Driving is more important than school because you only go through it once, whereas you can get an education anytime," Reed said.

CAMPUS CORNER
Sunday
All You Can Eat
Chicken Buffet
11 a.m. to 3 p.m.
$3.95
Pizza Buffet
5 p.m. to 9 p.m.
$2.89

REYNOLDS BOOT SHOP
Expert Boot Repair America’s A-1 Boot Repair
Quality Hamburger Speedy Service Inside Driving
Quality Food
Inside Driving
Shape-up Window
915 N. Main

Anthony’s
New Everyday low prices
Men’s Pullover Munsingwear shirts
$9.88

OPEN
Daily 9 a.m. to 8 p.m.
Sunday Noon to 5 p.m.

PHOTOGRAPHY BY LISA COX
Cagers earn all-conference honors

Clint Baker

Point guard Kevin Russell for the Oldham County Lady Knight forward in the Lady Knight's game against New Albany. While leading the Lady Knight.

Viking soccer squad to open spring season

Coming off a 5-9 season the Viking soccer squad will compete in a number of open spring matches during the spring campaign.

The schedule is a mix of practice and games. Some games are against local teams, while others are against teams from other parts of the state. The team will compete in the southern region of the state, which includes teams from Kentucky, Tennessee, and South Carolina.

The team will take on several new opponents this season, including local teams such as the Mustangs, Bearcats, and Bulldogs. The schedule includes games against teams from the same conference, as well as teams from different conferences.

The team will also face tough opponents such as the Lady Knights, Lady Tigers, and Lady Patriots. The team will have to adapt to different playing styles and match-ups in order to succeed.

The team's season-long goal is to improve upon last year's 5-9 record and make it to the playoffs.

The playoffs will be a critical time for the team, as they will face challenging opponents. The team will have to be prepared and ready to perform at their best in order to make it to the playoffs.

In conclusion, the Viking soccer team is excited for the upcoming season and looks forward to facing tough opponents and improving upon last year's record.
The Norsewind – the NEO A&M College Newspaper

Digital copies of The Norsewind, Northeastern Oklahoma A&M College's student newspaper, are available in .pdf format on the NEO website for non-commercial purposes only. Scans were created using the best available editions through the assistance of the Oklahoma Higher Education Historical Society from microfilmed images. Where stains, color-fading, contributed marks or ripped pages were visible on the original, they also appear in the digital copy. NEO newspaper editions that do not appear on the website are not part of the collection at present. If you would like to donate a missing, damaged or incomplete copy of The Norsewind, please contact the NEO Library.