HOLIDAY SPIRIT

Class offers insight
The spirit of Christmas

Norse Wind, December 13, 1983

The Fine Arts Center was filled with the sound of the seasonal holiday concert presented by the NEO music department.

The first group to perform was the Menomonees, directed by Mary Susan Whaley, the department chairperson. Their portion of the program was a delightful selection of contemporary and traditional Christmas carols.

The Menomonees performed a medley of carols, including "Silent Night," "O Come All Ye Faithful," and "Joy to the World." Their harmonies were beautiful, and the audience was captivated by their performance.

The second group to perform was the Women's Chorus, directed by Dr. Robert Chase, the director of choral activities. Their portion of the program was a medley of contemporary and traditional Christmas carols.

The Women's Chorus performed a selection of carols, including "In the Bleak Midwinter," "Adeste Fideles," and "What Child Is This?" Their harmonies were equally beautiful, and the audience was impressed by their skill and precision.

The final group to perform was the University Singers, directed by Dr. Thomas Anderson, the associate director of music. Their portion of the program was a medley of traditional Christmas carols.

The University Singers performed a selection of carols, including "Here Comes Santa Claus," "Jingle Bells," and "White Christmas." Their harmonies were a joy to listen to, and the audience was delighted by their performance.

Overall, the concert was a wonderful celebration of the holiday season, and the musicians of the NEO music department, as well as the audience, were all treated to a delightful evening of music.

Manning directs program

“Our courses are basic enough to allow students to do any of a number of things,” said Manning. “We offer opportunities to advance through the study of criminal justice and the course will be applicable,” said Leon Manning, instructor.

“Because the criminal justice department has been here for 17 years and is one of the first in the field, it is the only one in the state,” he said. “And the fact that most law enforcement agencies require applicants to be 21 years of age, it is preparing the student for a bachelor degree,” said Manning.

Steadfastly going to the front line, the department offers a unique course in criminal law enforcement, criminal law preparation, and legal procedure to name a few.

“With department preparation, students are able to enter law enforcement at any level. We have had students find jobs in the police department and others who are on the Tulsa police department,” Manning said.

“We have been fortunate here, students have been able to get into jobs in police departments and work in the field. In fact, we have had students in the court system and others who are working in the police department,” Manning said.

“We will undoubtedly change again. Students may not find immediate work, but after completing training here, the college will assist students in the education to become police officers,” Manning said.

The classes have speakers from the professions of judges, attorneys, police officers, and others who are involved in the field. In the past, the students in the criminal investigation class become detectives and the students in the practical identification techniques class become forensic artists. The practical identification techniques class has become so popular that they are in high demand.

Bain active Horologist

With the sound of one million clocks ticking in the background, I was surprised to learn there were only two.

Tom Bain, director of the Loring Room, is a Horologist—what he means is that he’s a master of time and how to keep it in order.

There’s nothing quite like hearing a man talk about the science of time. It adds a sense of comfort,” Bain said.

Bain became interested in clocks when he was 16 years old and decided he wanted to be a Horologist. When Bain returned to the study of clocks, he found himself thinking about how these things worked and how they could be made to work together.

Bain became interested in clocks after he heard a story about a Horologist who was making a clock that would go for 100 years.

“An idea of one hundred clocks that were running together in unison,” Bain said.

In the early 1980s, Bain also became a member of the National Association of Watch & Clock Collectors, a group that meets twice a year to discuss and study clocks.

Collecting clocks is a way of life for Bain. He has traveled all over the world to study clocks and to learn more about the history of clocks.

“Clocks are an enjoyable hobby. In the early days, a good Vichy Regina clock would cost between $1,000 and $1,500 to one-hundred years old,” Bain said. “Today, the same clock will run $1,500 or more. Some are so expensive that it is not uncommon for a good Vichy Regina clock to run $20,000 or more.”

“Clocks have a charm of their own,” Bain said.

Bain is aware that there are many different types of clocks, but his hobby has become more expensive and rare.

“Most people don’t realize that there are as many as twenty-two clocks in Bain’s collection. His hobby has become more expensive and rare too. I have a couple of clocks that are worth thousands of dollars,” Bain said.

“Clocks are a hobby that is a passion,” Bain said.

The Christmas season is celebrated

Santa Claus comes to visit

The right before the Christmas season, Santa Claus is a generous, jolly fellow who brings presents to good little boys and girls on Christmas Eve.

As Santa Claus is the part of Christmas, he is also a part of other things. A Christmas tree is one of these things. On this special evening, there will be a special celebration which is enjoyed by many people.

Another aspect of Christmas is the lighting. Christmas lights are hung up in the windows. Special in these lights are the songs sung by the carolers. From "Silent Night" to "Oh, Holy Night".

POINSETTIA

During the holiday season, many homes are decorated with poinsettias. The color red symbolizes love and beauty, and the leaves represent faith and hope.

Call her unique! Child development club works with community kids

"People shy away from me because of the way I dress, but I am not like any other person," says Lauren. "I m a person who appreciates the beautiful things in life and enjoys the small things in life."

Waters is unique in the way she dresses and the way her hair is done. She is not afraid to stand out. When she feels down, she uses her music to help her through it. Her music choice is her way of expressing herself.

"One of my favorite things is the fact that I can express myself creatively and that I can have fun while doing it," says Lauren.

"I dress in a style that I like," she says. "I like to express myself through my style and I enjoy being unique."

Kathy Hilton

"The purpose of our club is to work with children in the community," says Kathy Hilton, the president of the People Interested in Children Club.

"Currently, we work with children of all ages," she says. "Our club is made up of parents and community members who are interested in helping children."

"Our club meets on the first Monday of each month at 4 p.m. in the hall of Allen Hall. The sponsors are Dr. Maritza Edwards and Ruth Rice, child development professors."

The group is working to establish a mentoring program with local schools who have students in need of assistance. The mentors would provide individual mentoring to the students.

“We have made good progress thus far this season although we have suffered a couple of let downs,” said coach Larry Gipson.

“I feel that we have played the best schedule in the region and in Oklahoma. This will pay off toward the end of the season for us,” said Gipson.

“Our team needs to be more consistent on offense and in stopping rushing and turnovers,” said Gipson.

“I think the team is scoring while averaging 17 points per game, while leading the team in assists with 60.

Sam Boone scored double figures. Forward Charles Prater contributed 17 points. Sophomore center Rodney Smith added 13 and freshmen guard Andrae Reed had 12 points.

Gipson said, “Our defense needs to be more consistent in our defense efforts.”

Sophomore guard Charles Prater continued to lead the team in scoring while averaging 17 points per game and finishing the season with 60 assists.

“Allen County beats us at times and not enough because the team is not in the gym,” said Gipson.

“Allen County is a third string team with excellent shooters and a good defense,” he added.

“The key to the defense Allen County is controlling their shooters and controlling the board. Our team is also using our height to our advantage.”

Red Devils visit Lady Norse lair

Featuring the nation’s number one defensive team, the Lady Norse are hosting the Allen County Red Devils Saturday night at 8 p.m. at the field house in Independence Community College.

Although this game promises to be more competitive, the home court advantage will go to the Lady Norse.

“We feel a better team than last year,” said coach Brian Agnew.

The Lady Norse are currently ranked ninth in the nation, and because of their tremendous defensive ability they are carrying a national number one status. They are undefeated after 10 games and have only allowed 45 points in one game. They have a team winning streak on their side.

“We think that we have to continue to do the things that got us where we are at now, said Agnew.

LADY NORSE’S NORTHERN 49—Even though we got off to a slow start, we were able to control the game with good defense.”

Snow falls on Norsemen hopes

Sean Baldes

Operating the skill, scholarship and perseverance of a highly trained snow, Norwalk College of DuPont, Wash., carved up the Northeastern Ad-MidAmérica in a 24-14 victory victory Saturday afternoon in the inaugural game of the Mid-America Bowl.

Playing before an estimated crowd of 1,500 fans at Tulsa's Union Stadium, the victory captured a perfect 11-0 season for coach Walter C. Carter's Badgers. The line dropped coach Glen Walters' eighth-ranked Norsemen to 6-2 on the year.

Snow entered the game as the only undefeated team based on the National Junior College Athletic Association.

The Badgers were ranked third in the NCIAA poll and were first by the California-based J.C. Gridiron newsletter. Both the NCIAA and the Gridiron gave the Badgers the 29-14 victory over the Norsemen.

After punting on their first possession, the Norsemen covered 71 yards in three plays to grab a 7-0 lead. Freshman quarterback Mike Hargus broke through the left sideline for a 42-yard touchdown run with 3:30 left in the first quarter. Veteran linebacker Randy McGinty added the extra point.

Snow wanted little time utilizing the Norseman defense. Taking the ball at their own 28, the Badgers drove 72 yards in 14 plays for the touchdown. While their three passes to six different receivers during the drive which culminated in a 2-yard run by the freshman quarterback.

The attempt at the tying extra point was blocked and the Badgers trailed 7-6 with 3:16 left in the first quarter.

With a third and one on the 10-yard line, Snow went for the Norsemen at the Snow 34-yard line. Hargus missed connections on a two-man sweep pitch to trailing back Curtis Warren and Badger strong safety Dave Morssauer recovered the fumble.

Marching 61 yards in six plays, Snow grabbed the lead on the right end of a 35-yard TD pass from White to fullback Chris Patron.

Norsemen linebacker Eric Strother sacked White on the two-point conversion attempt to create a 1-37 Badger lead with 13:12 left in the second quarter.

Taking the air once again, White guided the Badgers 71 yards in 10 plays for their second touchdown of the game. Freshman wide receiver Mike Borich gathered in a 22-yard TD pass from White with 12:58 left until halftime.

Record-setting placekicker Leonard Cherry hit the extra point for a 10-7 lead for the Badgers at intermission.

Receiving the second-half kickoff the Norsemen did not get a chance to Snow on the first play from scrimmage. Hargus received a free pass from the Badger boot and was stopped short of the goal line by Snow linebacker Chuck Mauro on the NCA 35-yard line.

Fullback Tom Sheppard carried over from the 4 yard line out to the 35-yard line, seven play drive with 13:43 left in the third quarter. Cherry hit the PAT for a 27-7 score.

After taking the ensuing kickoff, the Norsemen moved 68 yards in 13 plays with Warren scoring from 1-yard out for a 27-14 deficit with 6:38 left in the third quarter.

Following a punt to N.C.A.A. sophomore Rick Yang, the Badgers covered 43 yards in 10 plays.
