College observes Awareness Week

By Lori Brown

Campuses around the country are gearing up for the fifth annual National Collegiates Alcohol Awareness Week, Oct. 15-21.

"Labour of the beauty and the student union will be wearing a red ribbon in support of Drug Free Youth," said Adonna Heling, coordinator of the counseling and guidance center.

The National Federation of Parents for Drug Free Youth is promoting a week long drive to inform students of the dangers to control and eventually abolish drugs in our country.

"We, the youth, will soon be the leaders of this country and in order to provide a national, realistic and productive environment we must protect our children, we must all work together now to cut the drug problem," said Heling.

Drugs are in all segments of our society. "Drugs are not an answer for anyone, and will destroy many of our most productive citizens," said Heling.

"Help eliminate drugs by saying no." Recent national polling reveals that less than half the public knows the crucial formula: the maximum common divisor of beer (22 ounces) and wine (3 ounces), spirits (1 ounce) and wine equals (12 ounces) contain equal amounts of alcohol.

This also means a lot of students would benefit from the explanation of this fact.

There are some college survival tips that may save lives this school year.

1. After your next scullage party or happy hour, whatever you've had beer, wine or spirits, don't drive.
2. Eat something before you go to a party and while you're there. Never drink on an empty stomach.
3. Solid food like cheese can slow down the alcohol absorption rate. If you're drinking a party, serve lots of munchies and plenty of water.
4. Adding tonic, soda, or other mixers in spirits and wine slows down the rate of alcohol intake.
5. Don't be pushed into drinking more than you can handle or pressure your friends to keep up with you. Everyone has an individual tolerance. Let your friends pass themselves.
6. Keep a watchful eye. Cocktails should contain no more than 14 ounces of spirits. Wine has been known to have 13 ounces and a typical serving of beer has 12 ounces.
7. If you're mixing your own drink, use a shot glass to measure your liquor.
8. Know yourself and your mood. If you really drink, chugging a few beers will affect you faster than if they were to be consumed in a normal drinking session.
9. Alcohol can also influence the way you react to a drink.

Behavior Modification class addresses alcohol and drug dependency problems

Behavior Modification class addresses alcohol and drug dependency problems

On the first night students discuss why they are in the class. The officer is also asked if they would change their decision if circumstances were to come up again. Adonna Heling serves as instructor.

At Moffett, social science instructor, discusses the drug and alcohol problem in the second meeting. Moffet also presents films on the problems of drugs and alcohol.

During the third meeting the officer has study halls when no one is allowed to talk.

"There is usually three to 10 people in the class each week," said Heling.

"When we first start, we ask each student whether or not he is interested in being experimented with either drugs or alcohol," said Heling.

During the meetings, Heling said, "approximately 10 percent of the students in the class are directly involved with alcohol and about another 20 percent are indirectly involved," said Heling.

"The other 70 percent have not used bad judgement in a certain situation and are being disciplined so they can learn maybe a different way of dealing with their situations."

"Last year three people were sent back to the class after getting in trouble again and so far this year no student has returned," Heling said.

Healing started this program last year with the idea of making this program into a self-reflection class.

"So far the results of the class have been excellent, I believe the program has the effect of deterring any future inflations because students learn their behavior.

Fines result from drinking

Drinking alcohol on campus may not be as much fun as you think it is.

If you are caught with alcohol beverages anywhere on campus you can be fined anywhere from $5 to $50 and sent to Behavior Modification class two hours a night, three nights a week for one week.

If a person is caught more than once, they could be put on detraction," said Barry Hayes, associate dean for student affairs and director of housing.

Also the fine will be raised considerably compared to the first fine. In some cases individual counseling will be assigned," said Hayes.

"Yes, I think there is a problem with alcohol on this campus," said Hayes.

"There are teenagers drinking alcoholic beverages, when in fact it's illegal for them to have possession of alcohol, there is a problem," Hayes said.

"Although the problem has decreased within the last few years...there is still a lot of students bringing the alcohol on campus and drinking in it to their dorm rooms.

Break provides brief respite

Fall Break brings a two-day reprieve Tuesday and Friday at Trinity Valley Community College. Course work resume Monday, Oct. 24 at 7 a.m.

The Bruce G. Carter Student Union cafeteria will be closed through the break along with all administrative offices and the Daily Dome.

Students wanting to stay in the dormitory during the break should check with housing director Bob Hayes for permission. Once a student has permission, the dorm will be rented by the student, The dorm will be locked for the students protection of their belongings.

Although most of the college population will enjoy the break, members of the Golden Eagle football team will return to Athens, Texas, Saturday, for a 7:30 p.m. contest against Trinity Valley Community College.

Correction

In the Oct. 12 issue of the Norse Wind an article was published concerning the Native American Student Association and Janna Thompson.

The cost of the shirts that are being sold by the Native American Student Association was quoted at $5.60. The actual cost is $7 per shirt.

Therefore, the Norse Wind deeply regrets this error.
Take action now

One more time for the heck of it, there are only two more left to make a decision on whether or not to vote, and if so, for whom.

Although drawing up a well thought-out conclusion about the policies of the candidates for President may be difficult, there is little time left in which to do so. Elections are held in November.

Since every eligible citizen has already registered, the only thing left to do is decide which of the two outstanding candidates is best suited to spearhead the American government.

One of these fine gentlemen will lead this great country, and affect every part of the lives of its citizens, for the next four years. Deploring thought.

Another depressing idea is that perhaps these two candidates actually do represent large portions of the citizenry. A sociologist may agree that they do.

It is apparent that there really are few people that care enough about this government that it influences all of our daily lives, to even register to vote and then turn up at the polls.

Perhaps those two candidates are true examples of the values that the American people believe in.

Laughing can cause trouble

Poking fun at people, and their predicaments sometimes hilarious to your health.

Laughter with a person is always better than laughing at someone.

Poking fun at others is very likely to be hurtful and sometimes should be avoided. Laughter at oneself is a very good way to express the stress that one feels. It has been said that laughter is the best medicine. But when laughter is the expense of someone that has no control over the happy situation that the other person is not funny, it is cruel and unfair.

Laughter is the best of remedies, but all medications, there is a time and reason to be.

Laughter for the sake of hurting another is not to be disregarded by nature people.

This idea of old people for example. Younger people should realize that the old person may have lived as long as they have because they never had the availability to laugh at their elders, and therefore did not get killed for their laughter.

If a person cannot find enough in their own happiness and predicaments to laugh about, they are not likely to be able to laugh at anything because it is not funny, it is basically cruel and unfair.

Couple enlighten collegiate courses

by Jill Love

Ken and Jamie Jacks have traveled together the 54.6 miles from their home in Pryor to their jobs at N.E.O. for all of their 32 years of marriage.

Mr. Jacks teaches sociology classes at N.E.O. for the past 18 years. Mrs. Jacks has instructed students in the math department for 16 years.

The couple loves their house-long morning drive.

Jamie says, "The drives give us an uninterrupted hour of talk, which is an enjoyable break in the routine of raising children and working.

Although their offices are both located in Shapley Hall, Ken says, "We hardly ever see one another. Her office is on the first floor, mine on the third. Our paths rarely cross.

Jamie says, "I sleep in the trip home. It gives me time to unwind and think for myself as college.

Honeymoons inhabit Dyer Hall

By Rhonda Plaza

Mike and Jamie Cleverges have taken over Dyer Hall this year and are overseeing approximately 101 guys in the dorm.

Mike is the assistant coach of the NEO wrestling team and he classified Jamie as "dorm mom." Jamie runs the dorm and she always knows the name of most of the guys in Dyer.

Mike's younger brother raised a wrestler and he lives in Dyer also. Mike has many of the guys in Dyer for a long time so he feels right at home with them.

"I've been in the right place, got to know some great people and have a lot of fun," Mike says.

Jamie is attending a few classes in hopes of someday getting an associate degree in social work. She is very excited about Dyer Hall.

"We have the best dorm and the best guys on campus. It's always fun around here. It's a learning experience.

"Our guys are very active in clubs and things. Our intramural teams do not win many games, but we do have a lot of fun playing them."

"We also have a lot of football teams, the Dyer Ducks and the Dyer Dukes."

"We have a lot of soccer teams and we don't win many games, but we do have a lot of fun playing them."

"The Cleverges have a wristwatch that they have taught to everyone and it's very interesting to watch.

They haven't been married a year yet, but they are married on June 23, but they feel that marriage will be there for the present.

Sherry London, representing the Spanish club, was crowned homecoming queen last weekend.

"I am so happy I'm attending college here because I've never seen such great pride taken by the students about their school and I'm very proud to be a part of it," London said.

After graduating from NBO, London plans to attend Northwestern State University to finish her degree in elementary education. "I hope to become a role model here for all the students. I want to show them that it is a lot of fun to become a part of the campus community, and still get good grades," London said.

London was second runner up in the Miss South Lake / Lake View at Gove and also was chosen as Miss Easter at Gore in 1971.

Television captures viewers attention

By Mark Baldwin

A television is a household necessity in any home. Millions of Americans own one. Some people own more than one television set. Some people watch television for hours at a time, while others watch for only a few minutes. Regardless of how much time is spent watching television, it is important to understand the impact it has on our society and culture.

Today, television is not just a form of entertainment. It is a medium that can be used to communicate ideas and information. Television can be used to inform, educate, and entertain. It can also be used to promote political and social causes. For example, many television shows have been used to raise awareness about important issues such as climate change, poverty, and human rights.

Television is also a powerful tool for marketing and advertising. Many companies use television to promote their products and services. This is because television has a large audience and can reach a wide range of consumers.

In conclusion, television is an important part of American culture. It has changed the way we communicate and interact with each other. It has also changed the way we perceive and understand the world around us. As technology advances, it is likely that television will continue to evolve and influence the way we live our lives.

Holloway paces Norse past Tritons

With just two games left in the regular season, Golden Norse head football coach Glen Wolfe isn't sure the Golden Norsemen are developing into a national contender. "Even though we've won six of our seven games, we're not getting a team effort in every game," said Wolfe.

The Golden Norse had to come back from a 9-2 deficit at halftime to defeat Iowa Central 28-21 at Fort Dodge, Iowa, Saturday.

"When we want to we can play very well. But I'm a little disappointed with some of the individual performances we get in Iowa," Wolfe said.

Wolfe said against Iowa Central the Golden Norse offense generated 390 total yards. "That's not to say we're not a good football team. We're still a good football team. We're just not dominant in every game," he added.

Sophomore tailback Bernard Holloway rushed for 46 yards on eight carries. Holloway gave the Norse an 11-0 lead when he returned the second half kickoff 80 yards for a touchdown.

Holloway also rallied the Norsemen in the fourth quarter after Iowa Central had built a 21-14 lead. Holloway caught a 16-yard touchdown pass from freshman quarterback Jackie Hood as the Norsemen grabbed a 25-14 lead.

"Bernard has given us a maximum effort every time he's taken the field. He's played his heart out," said Wolfe. "He played a great game out there. He got the offensive line to open up holes."

Senior defensive back Tommie Cox and safety Mike Baerick said Holloway's performance was less than normal. "He was less than normal," said Wolfe. "He really is a special player. He's a very special player."

Senior Thomas Cox said Holloway was pleased with Holloway's performance. He was less than normal about the performance of sophomore running back Terence Cox and safety Mike Baerick.

"Neither one of those players is giving us 100 percent," said Wolfe. "We're going to give Bernard a lot more playing time at halfback for the rest of the season because he is our best player in the offense because of his effort," said Wolfe.

Wolfe led the Golden Norsemen ground game with 89 yards on 11 carries. "For some unsual reason, Cox took himself out of the game after his 67-yard run was called back on a clip. He finally got back into the game, but he wasn't effective," Wolfe said.

Despite rushing for 204 yards on 42 carries, the Norse offense struggled on the pass for success. Good completion of 11 of 29 passes for 345 yards in one TD without an interception. Freshman backup Greg Kinder completed 2 of 2 passes for 21 yards with one interception.

"Our passing game is getting better. We're getting good pass protection from our offensive line and Jackie did a great job of throwing the open receivers," said Wolfe.

Six players latched onto the 15 passes thrown by Norse quarterback. "I'm happy with the way we're playing," said Wolfe. "The Golden Norse defense recorded eight solo tackles each."

Linebacker Derwyn Simmons made 9 tackles and 2 assists. Veteran defensive end Bobby Wilson made 8 tackles and 4 assists. Defensive tackle Johnny Dixon recorded 8 tackles and 2 assists.

After recording eight quarterback sacks against Grand Rapids, the Norse defense managed only two and a half against the Tritons. Junior Dixon caught Varpa for a 6-yard loss.

"We've got a long way to go as a team, but time is running out."
