counseling center serves student needs

By Pamela Kemeny

The counseling center is offering several programs this year to help students make a decision on whether they want to major in a career or to help them find a job.

SGDL Plus is a program aimed at helping students find majors that are best suited for them. Students work on computers that contain career information necessary for them to make their own decisions.

Salary, education requirements and employment opportunities are all things that people need to know that will help them choose a major or career.

SGDL Plus is offered to any student Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

To participate in the program, you must come by and make an appointment, said Rich Ries, director of counseling.

Another program being offered is the job placement service. This is a service set up to help students find employment in the community.

Several different businesses call the center and give information about their job needs.

The center puts this information on file. Students who are interested in finding a job should check-out the bulletin board in the downtown building.

Bloodmobile visits campus

Anyone interested in donating blood will have an opportunity Tuesday, Sept. 25 during a visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile.

The Bloodmobile will be in the Johnson Hall lobby from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Maturity leads to independence

Upon coming to college, we are expected to display a great deal of maturity in return for an even bigger amount of independence.

Now that we are free to make our own decisions, we are also responsible for the consequences of those decisions. We have the freedom to choose our paths, but we also have the responsibility to navigate them wisely.

The decision-making process at college is different from high school. College requires us to take ownership of our education and our lives. It is up to us to make decisions that will lead to our success.

We are no longer dependent on others to make decisions for us. We must now make decisions that will affect our future. It is important to remember that every decision we make has consequences.

It is up to us to take control of our lives and make informed decisions. We have the freedom to choose, but we also have the responsibility to live up to our choices.

Don't get me wrong! I respect the rights of their fans to listen to it, but I don't want to. I don't have to.

I will listen to everything and give it a chance. If I don't like what I hear, I won't listen to it. But I won't make someone else stop.

How far is it to respect other points of view? If there were a little more respect for their fellow man, or woman, or point of view and opinion, maybe this world wouldn't be so screwed up.

If someone would like to express their opinion, pros or cons, I would be glad to hear from them and end it in the proper person, Congress.

Please write to P.O. Box 3249, Mose, Oklahoma 73455-0329. I would greatly appreciate it. Or write to your congressman yourself, and stop this monstrosity-CENSORSHIP.

Thank you.

Problems cause stress

Almost every college student faces problems with stress at one time or another.

The stress they are feeling can come from a number of different things in the students' environment. Stress can be caused by a large amount of homework or that "killer" test coming up.

There are other things that can cause stress, such as family and personal relationship problems. With any problem, it is difficult to concentrate on your work.

College students are often troubled with financial problems. It's a difficult task to be on your own for the first time and manage a check book.

There are many different things that cause stress. It's not like the only one having a bad day.

One way to deal with stress is by taking a day off and just relax. Do something that you enjoy doing, be it reading a book or watching television, or just laying around.

If you're not able to take a day off, and are faced with a stressful situation, take a deep breath and just relax. Confidence in yourself and in your work is the key to success. Remember, the sooner you do your homework assignment or paper, the sooner it will be done, and then you can relax.

Student addresses censorship

Dear Editor:

Thank you! Finally someone who isn’t afraid to speak their mind as a true journalist, objectively.

For years people have always stated their opinions and never said what the other side of the story. That is the biggest problem with today’s society. It’s always, “Me, me, me!”

I am very much against censorship in any form. Granted, there are other ways to express yourself other than having to swear every other word, like the 2 Live Crew, for example.

Fee waiver expanded

College officials announced a recent expansion of the state tuition fee waiver which makes it more economical for non-Oklahomans to attend college here.

The policy, which allows qualified students to pay the same tuition rates here even though they are not residents, was implemented due to the number of non-residents taking advantage of the opportunity to attend college in Oklahoma, college president said.

The waiver covers tuition and fees for non-residents attending any public university or community college in Oklahoma, regardless of their residency status.

The policy is designed to help attract and retain top students from outside Oklahoma who might otherwise attend more expensive out-of-state institutions.

The expansion of the fee waiver is expected to benefit many students who otherwise would have been unable to afford attending college in Oklahoma.

Emergency health care services available from several sources

By Kimberly Biggs

 Sight, hearing, and common sense are the tools of a doctor. If you can see what is wrong and you can talk about it, you will be able to tell a doctor what is going on.

This year, the hospital is expanding its services to include a new clinic for patients who need emergency care. The clinic is located on the east side of town, next to the hospital. It is open during regular business hours and will be staffed by a team of doctors and nurses.

The clinic offers services such as the following:

- Treatment of common ailments
- Referral to specialists when necessary
- Immunizations
- Blood tests
- X-rays
- Ultrasound
- casting of bones
- minor surgery
- bandaging
- treatment of injuries

At the clinic, patients can receive care from a team of doctors and nurses. The doctors are experienced in treating a variety of conditions, including injuries, infections, and chronic illnesses. The nurses are trained in providing comprehensive care, including pain management and wound care.

The clinic is open during regular business hours, and patients can receive care when it is most convenient for them. Patients can schedule appointments by calling the clinic or by walking in during regular business hours.

The clinic is staffed by a team of doctors and nurses who are dedicated to providing the highest level of care. They are committed to working together to ensure that patients receive the care they need. The clinic is located at 524 East Main Street, next to the hospital.

Livestock judging requires time

By Kimberly Biggs

This year, the livestock judging team is ready to roll. They plan on taking the judging team to several shows in the area as well as on other trips. The judging team is composed of approximately 30 members. Out of these, there are returning sophomores. Out of the 30, eight are the maximum number allowed to attend.

Serving as co-chair this year are Jay Douglas and Jeff Bedwell. Nine of the eight are the team which participates in the judging. The other three are alternates in case a team member gets sick or is unable to attend.

The deciding factor on who decides or does not get to try for the team is based on the show’s total of each member. The members with the high point totals get to try. The team judges, or evaluates, different classes of cattle, sheep, and hogs,” said Douglas.

“Then they give oral reasons, which is a two-minute speech on the reason for the placement of the animal judged.”

The contest is usually composed of 12 placings classes with three to eight sets of oral reasons.

All members of the judging team who participate in the judging, whether they stated or not, are required to maintain a 2.5 grade average and be enrolled in 12 hours. They may not be taking any classes,” said Douglas.

Any member who travels with the team must fulfill their instructors to attend the trip. The instructors tell the coaches of the member who has been on the team for three years or more.

Study group sets Thursday for meetings

Collegiates for Christ is an organization supported by the Christian Church for students interested in fellowship with others. The organization meets every Thursday for a luncheon from noon until 1 p.m.

"Food is furnished by various women in the church and brought in by the members," said Ronnie Pontius, director for Collegiates for Christ. Also on Thursday, the group holds a bible study and fellowship at 7 p.m.

Some of the activities the organization is involved in include a fall retreat, Sept. 22, and a trip to Mexico over spring break. On this trip, the group will work with a missionary. The organization is open to anyone who wishes to join, free of charge.
Bulldogs seek top spot
By Clark Sherman

Coming off an impressive win over Illinois, Iowa, number one ranked NEO will host the Bulldogs of Nazarene Junior College, Saturday, 9:30 a.m. at Rader Field. The Nazarene 5-0 will look to gain revenge upon the defending NJCAA national champions. Last year, the Bulldogs handed the Norse a 34-14 loss in Kansas City, Texas.

The Norse will try to get back on track after a 44-7 loss to St. Louis. Last week, the defeat dropped Nazarene from number one to number 10 in the weekly polls.

"They have a very good team," said Norse coach Glen Wolfe. "Every year under coach Ellis, Nazarene has opened up to off more and more. Their type of offensive and defensive pressure on us is secondary.

Coach Wolfe will rely upon veteran quarterbacks, andfeather (5-9, 180) and Michael Smith (5-10, 180) to withstand the high pressure of the Nasarene defense. At the safeties will be regular starters Brian Brown (5-10, 180) and Roberto O'Neal (5-10, 180).

Starting in middle linebacker will be Tim Sekel (6-0, 220). The outside linebackers will be Brian Hamilton (5-10, 200) and Taimoorat (5-10, 200). Tim Beckman's (6-2, 250) will start at fullback, and Howard Hokanson (5-11, 230) will start at tackle. The Norse offense will feature running backs,Erich Peterson (5-11, 220) and Scott Crabtree (5-11, 190) at quarterback.

Wrestlers face tough schedule
By Vernice Hughes

With a mixture of junior college and NCAA tournaments, head coach Alan Launenhope hopes the Golden Norsemen wrestling schedule can produce a successful season.

"Overall, there are a lot of tough teams on our schedule this season," said Launenhope. "I'm really looking forward to going up against the University of Southern California, Oregon State and St. Louis. This will give our guys a chance to compete against wrestlers at the university level. The season began on the road Nov. 10 at Sands West Central High for a regional meet. From there the team traveled to Parsons, Kan., for the Labette Counties Invitational Tournament on Nov. 1.

The Norsemen defeated No. 8 for another invitational meet before traveling to Lincoln, Ill., on Nov. 11 for a dual.

The entire Golden Norsemen schedule is as follows:
November 1: Tournament of the States, 11 a.m.-7 p.m. at Rader Field.

November 2: Tri-meet against Pittsburg State, 11 a.m.-7 p.m. at Rader Field.

November 3: Dual meet with Missouri Valley College, 11 a.m.-7 p.m. at Rader Field.

November 10: Regional Invitational Tournament, 11 a.m.-7 p.m. at Rader Field.

November 11: Tri-meet against St. Louis University, 11 a.m.-7 p.m. at Rader Field.

December 1: Tri-meet against Kansas State and Pittsburg State, 11 a.m.-7 p.m. at Rader Field.
Norsemen declaw Panthers

By Todd Nolles
Sports Editor

Doing just enough to win, the Golden Norse defeated the Panthers of Ellsworth College, 20-12, last Saturday in Kansas City.

The win gave the Norse a 3-0 record going into this week’s game with defending national champion Narrows, St. Joseph, Missouri. It’s the first time since 1975, a 26-0 victory over Kansas City College (KAC), that the Norse have been able to move to 3-0.

"We were able to do just enough to win," said Nolles. "We played decent offensively and defensively, but we could have played better. But we did enough to get the win." It was the Norse’s first possession of the game, and the Norse scored on that possession.
