Personal rights cover campus crime reports

By Pamela Kenney

Americans have been taught that we have four freedoms: freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom of press, and freedom to assemble. We know that we are fortunate enough to be in a country that allows this; however, we all have our freedoms that are restricted.

The freedom of speech and religion are basically guaranteed to us as is the freedom to assemble because we have proven over the last two years that we want our rights.

But there is the freedom of the press. Many times we have not had the freedom to report the news, it is said that the colleges and universities are beginning to be treated like high schools and are not able to publish the news.

For example, the case of Southeast Missouri State University has caused me to express my opinion concerning this situation. SEMO's newspaper wanted to release a story about crimes that had occurred on campus. However, the university refused to release information to the paper because of the student editor. There was a lawsuit against the school for violating the Constitution and the First Amendment to the Constitution.

The U. S. District Court ruled in favor of the student editor and the student newspaper, but the court ruled that the school did not have to release the information.

The U.S. Department of Education and the Justice Department disagreed and filed motions in the district court to reverse portions of federal Judge Russell G. Clark's decision.

In his decision, the Court ruled that the school was violating the Constitution and the First Amendment to the Constitution unless it released the student newspaper from public disclosure.

Stated another way, it was unconstitutional for the school to restrict the student newspaper from publishing the crime reports.

The government said that the crime reports were educational records because they were part of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act. This law forbids the release of educational records from schools to third parties without the student's consent. The government also said that the crime reports were educational records because they were part of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act.

The decision was made by the educational records and the government claimed that the student newspaper was not part of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act.

The court ruled that the student newspaper was part of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act and that the school was violating the First Amendment to the Constitution.

This case is important for those who believe in the right to free speech and freedom of the press. It is a victory for the student newspaper and a defeat for the school that tried to suppress the news.

It is important to keep in mind that the First Amendment to the Constitution protects the right to free speech and freedom of the press, not only for the student newspaper but for all media outlets.

Student participation important for growth

The elected Student Government officers are approaching the end of their terms. The students should take a look at the candidates for the offices to determine who they would like to be their representatives.

We should look for candidates who are honest, trustworthy, and who have experience in student government positions. These candidates should have experience in student government positions and should be willing to work for the students.

We should also look for candidates who are willing to work for the students. These candidates should be willing to work for the students and be open to the ideas of the students.

Future officers should be willing to listen to the students and be open to the ideas of the students. These officers should be willing to listen to the students and be open to the ideas of the students.

It is important to keep in mind that the elected officers are representing the students. They should be willing to listen to the students and be open to the ideas of the students.

Financial concerns haunt drunk drivers

By Deknas Mora

Nearly 4,000 young Americans lost their lives in alcohol-related crashes last year. Nearly 1,800 Oklahomans were killed or severely injured between the months of April through June of last year.

"The alcohol problem has not gone away and today's students need to understand where a few drinks can lead them," said Jana Lynn Thompson, college prevention coordinator.

"Beer is a drug that alters oneself and how that person acts on others," said Thompson.

Beer accounts for half of all alcohol consumed in this country. As many as 3.2 billion cases of regular beer are consumed each year. You can buy a beer in almost any store near any college campus in the country.

The reason it is so important to be aware of the psycho-social aspects of using beer and other drugs is that it is not only bad for the user but it is also bad for society in general. It can lead to crime, violence, and other social problems.

According to Thompson, considering that half of today's teenagers have tried alcohol by the time they graduate college, it is important that parents understand the potential dangers of alcohol use.

The first use of alcohol is typically with friends or other relatives. Children who become problem drinkers often begin drinking away from home between the ages of 10 and 12. When people start out using alcohol heavily, they usually start using other drugs as well. This is called poly-drug use.

The most common poly-drug use is nicotine with marijuana. Of students aged 18-20, one in five have used both drugs. This is evidence that we live in a drug using society.

Parents try to tell kids not to drink or use drugs. But the truth is that they don't practice what they preach.

Many adults drink regularly. Some are dependent on prescription tranquilizers, and there are also synthetic drugs that are popular on college campuses. The use of these drugs is widespread on college campuses.

These drugs do not make teenagers feel good, but they should force adults to ask themselves if they are good models for their children.

Most adults are social drinkers and do not see any danger in their drinking or in their behavior, but studies prove that the social drinker accounts for one third of all alcohol-related crashes.

We are all responsible for our actions. Whether it is drinking or driving, if we get caught, we face the consequences.

The price one pays may not be the death penalty, but with the Oklahoma DUI law, the price may only be a bigger incentive for students to drink.

A DUI generally includes a 90-day license revocation, 90 days of which must be suspended. For a person who fails a blood alcohol test, with an alcohol concentration of .10 or above, they may be revoked for 90 days of driving privileges. If the person is under the age of 21, they must face the suspension of their driver's license for one year or until age 21, whichever is longer.

The same penalties apply to persons under 21 caught smoking marijuana on campus. There are many factors that add to the problem of drinking and alcohol abuse on college campuses.

Many of these factors include factors such as experimentation, peer pressure, rebellion, stress and phobia.

Bющие is the college version of the Students Against Drunk Driving chapter. We want to make all interested persons to attend our meetings," said Thompson.

"Our most successful venture is the training of student leaders for non-alcoholic parties. These parties usually involve alcohol. We want your students to get sober parties," Thompson said.

"We promote having fun on the college campuses without the use of alcohol or other drugs," Thompson said.

Activities focus on business

Approximately 140 students and 11 schools will be competing in the fifth annual Business Day event Friday, April 19.

The purpose of these day-long events is to recognize superior achievement and academic abilities in the field of business among high school students, said George Water, chairman of the business division.

Awards of competition include accounting, programming, general business, and writing skills.

The competition has grown considerably this year," Water said. Awards will be presented to the top three individuals in each area. First place winners will receive a plaque and a $400 scholarship to attend NEO.

Individual winners do not have to be seniors to receive the scholarship. A sweepstakes trophy will go to the school that scores the most overall points.

Spring drills feature some surprises

By Todd Nickels

Coaching staff at the Golden Nurse football team completed the spring drills last Saturday with a lot of questions still unanswered.

The team was led by first-year head coach Mike Loyd's Gold, who has plenty of experience in the skill positions.

Returning for the Nurse at quarterback is last year's starter Scott Lindsey along with Todd Beasley and transfer Tyler Mitchell.

Mitchell comes to the Nurse after playing for Eustace High School in Mississippi.

Graber started one game for the Nurse last year while completing 6 of 16 passes for 108 yards, no touchdowns and no interceptions.

In a reserve roll last season, Beasley completed 10 of 19 passes for 84 yards and one touchdown.

Taylor returning for the Golden Nurse at center, Lamar Smith, Eric Young, Jerry Kiman, from Fort Worth and Wylie

Smith led the Nurse in rushing last season with 1751 yards, and 388 yards, completing 49 of 90 carries for an 8.4 average per carry.

Lamar Smith is one of the top running backs in the country at least. Compared to the 25 yards, and 388 yards, completing 49 of 90 carries for an 8.4 average per carry.

Loyd said:

"We're looking for Wesley and Billy both, but Billy was unable to participate in spring drills because of injury, and he should be back by fall." Loyd said.

Leading receiver Billy Williams returns for the Nurse along with Gary Brown, Scott Lindsey and Karon Jones.

Williams caught 12 passes for 209 yards and one touchdown.

Brown, who started four games for the Nurse last season, caught two of 31 passes for 54 yards and one touchdown.

At tight end for the Nurse are Todd Williams and Caleb Powers.
